Rattling on the Radio
Lodge and Coolidge
Who Is to Blame?
California's Mistake

IN ENGLAND, a microphone, artfully concealed in the trees, sends the voice of the nightingale broadcast throughout the country. That is a beautiful idea. A Pennsylvania State College sends out by radio the rattle of a rattlesnake.

The snake, purposely annoyed, rattled obligingly for fifteen minutes and the hearers shuddered. That was extremely interesting for it reminds you that old Nature used broadcasting methods in the snake's rattles, the lion's roar, thousands of centuries before any human beings were on earth.

SENATOR LODGE proposes to help President Coolidge set up the World Court and compel the United States to submit to decisions of foreign judges in international matters.

In the case of Senator Lodge you are not surprised. He is not young. That he should change from a violent enemy of the League of Nations to an advocate of the World Court, which is the same thing in a different dress, isn't surprising.

BUT CALVIN COOLIDGE, descendant of men who thought this country able to attend to its own affairs and do its own judging, ought to know enough to keep this country out of European entanglements.

An apologetic attitude toward Japan, because we presume to control our own territory, plus willingness to let judges chosen by foreign countries sit in judgment upon us, is not the old American way.

A YOUNG woman called "the bobbed hair bandit" has gone to jail to stay from ten to twenty years. When this woman, now barely out of her teens, was a little girl, she was sent on the streets, dressed in carefully assorted rags, to impose upon the public pity and to beg. From her childhood she was taught that the way to get a living is to swindle others.

SHE MARRIED an utterly worthless man, who made her a partner in his brigandage, taking her along to hold a revolver—which usually was not loaded—and frighten her husband's victims.

Now that both are sentenced to jail for the same length of time, what do you think of that particular sentence?

WHAT ABOUT the people that brought up this unfortunate woman from her infancy, in the atmosphere of cheating, lying and deception? Is she or are they responsible for her later career?

And what about giving her the same term in jail as was given to the man that made a professional criminal of her?

THE United States apologizes to Japan, and will postpone for long consideration the question as to the right of Americans to exclude Asiatic immigration.

Perhaps that is a result of California's vote at the Presidential primaries.

It would have paid the Californians, who decidedly favor Japanese exclusion, to place once

6 DOOMED MEN RAGE AND CURSE

Pace Their Cells Like Wild Animals, Begging for Liquor and Praying for Mercy

Amite, La., May 9 (I.N.S.).—Like caged wild animals, six men paced their death cells here today, begged for whiskey, pleaded for mercy and prayed that some unforeseen hand would stay the hangman's noose which this afternoon will plunge them into eternity.

They are six Italians sentenced to die for the murder of Dallas Calmes at Independence during an attempted bank robbery three years ago.

Around the jail State troops were stationed to see that no interference was made by members of the old New Orleans "Black Hand" organization or by countless others who have threatened "certain death" for officials should the men be hanged.

Forty special guards, heavily armed, assisted the soldiers in keeping their death watch.

CURSE ONE MAN.

But this heavy guard meant nothing to the doomed men. They paid no heed to the tramping of the soldiers past their cells.

They cried for liquor and begged for mercy and fell on their knees praying that some power would order a last minute intervention.

A priest made his rounds and attempted to console them. For a moment or two they would stop and listen to him, only to resume their pacings and scream for mercy.

Stationed in one of the cells between his five comrades was Roy Leona, an outcast. The others cursed him, branded him as "responsible for it all."

Leona, a few days ago, confessed to firing the shots which killed Calmes and took all the blame in an attempt to save his comrades. But it was too late. Several courts had heard the case and each one decreed the six men must die.

IGNORED BY HANGMAN.

Leona, suffering from five self-inflicted knife wounds in his breast, remained quiet during these expressions of contempt. He merely paced the floor a little faster.

During the night the hangman appeared at the jail. The screams, curses and pleas of the doomed men apparently had no effect on him. He quietly walked past the convicted slayers toward the scaffold and carefully examined every detail with care.

He brought six ropes, already tested, stretched and ready for their

C. O. POWER, NOTED WRITER, IS DEAD

By BERT FORD

Charles O. Power, an esteemed member of the reportorial and editorial staff of the Boston American and champion of disabled veterans of the World War, is dead in his fifty-seventh year.

"Charlie," as he was known far and wide, died from cerebral hemorrhage at 7:30 last evening at his home, No. 1246 Commonwealth avenue, Allston. He died in the harness, as would have been his wish. He had worked all day in the office and in the afternoon wrote three editorials.

He seemed fatigued when he reached home shortly after four o'clock. He complained of being ill and went to bed. He had two attacks and the second, within an hour of the first, proved fatal. His wife and two sons and daughter were at his bedside. He was unconscious for nearly an hour before he passed away.

Mr. Power had not been in robust health for some months. He caught cold at Easter and remained at home several days after which he and Mrs. Power spent a brief vacation at Atlantic City. The trip seemed to improve him and he resumed his work of writing the Minute Men editorials for the Boston American with renewed vigor.

He ate heartily yesterday morning and made no complaint during the day, although intimates in the office noticed that he appeared a trifle feeble as the day wore on.

He was unable to speak when he first reached home because of extreme exhaustion.

"Charlie" Power was one of the

LINER SAFE AFTER FIRE AT SEA

Steamship Ontario Heads for Boston With 43 Passengers as Blaze Is Conquered

Fire raged aboard the Boston passenger liner Ontario early today, while the vessel, with her crew battling the flames, raced through thick fog and a raging sea for safety.

SOS calls, sent out by Captain W. J. Bond were picked up by the New York to Boston boat, Calvin Austin, off Block Island, ten miles south, southwest of the burning liner.

The Calvin Austin, under full steam, caught the Ontario at the Vineyard Sound Lightship a few minutes after receiving a radio that the fire was under control.

At the lightship the fire was extinguished and both vessels started for Boston. Latest dispatches state the fire started and was confined to the cargo. It was said the ship was undamaged.

The Ontario, of the Merchants & Miners line, carried forty-three passengers, many of them seasick from one of the worst seas experienced in coastwise shipping this season.

She is due at Boston from Baltimore today.

ABLAZE IN THICK FOG.

The fire started in the vessel at 1:30 in the midst of a dense fog along the edge of which the Calvin Austin steamed.

"We picked up the SOS call from Capt. Bond of the Ontario while we were off Block Island, stating that his ship was on fire and asking me to stand by," said Capt. H. W. Robinson of the Calvin Austin when that vessel reached Boston today.

"He was about ten miles east, northeast. It was clear where I was but Capt. Bond reported that he was in thick weather.

"I radioed back that I was proceeding toward him at full speed and suggested that he come toward the Austin where the weather was clear. Shortly afterward, he reported that he was heading for Newport, giving me his course.

"A little later, before I had quite reached him, he sent word that the fire was under control and asked me to follow him to the Vineyard Sound lightship, this being where our course would divide.

"We arrived at the lightship about ten minutes behind him, and he told us that the fire was practically all out and fully under control and told us to continue on our way to Boston.

FIGHT IN HEAVY SEAS.

"There we parted, the Calvin Austin taking a course up through Buzzards Bay to the Canal and the Ontario proceeding through Vineyard and Nantucket sounds, around the Cape to Boston."

The Cretan of the Merchants & Miners Line, and the Melville Dollar of the Dollar Line, also received

Storm warnings were ordered displayed from Sandy Hook to Portland, Me., today, but, according to the Weather Bureau, the storm may blow out to sea before it reaches Boston.

The temperatures in Massachusetts, in common with other parts of the country, are below normal. At 8 a. m. the thermometer stood at 44 degrees in Boston and at noon it had reached 46.

the SOS call, but were dismissed by the Ontario when they received a notice that the fire was under control and the Calvin Austin was standing by.

Seamen of the Austin declared today that the sea was running so heavily that had it been necessary to launch a boat, disaster might have overtaken both rescuers and rescued.

The slogan of the Merchants & Miners' Steamship lines, organized seventy years ago, is "Millions of passengers carried—not a life lost."

Perhaps the nearest approach to a catastrophe in the history of the famous old coastwise line occurred in April, 1912, when the same Ontario, or rather its original, for the vessel was rebuilt practically from her keel, caught fire in the Sound one night and ran ashore on Montauk Point, at the easterly tip of Long Island.

VESSEL COST $400,000.

Even on that occasion, however, while some of the cargo burned for three days, ninety passengers and the crew were taken off and brought to this city.

The Ontario, which was due in Boston today, was built at Camden, N. J., at a reported cost of $400,000, and launched in August, 1904. She is equipped with triple-expansion engines and has a speed of 16 knots an hour.

The Ontario had her first unfortunate experience on October 3, 1908. She was leaving Boston harbor when she ran into the barge Elk Garden, inward bound from Baltimore, in tow of the tug Boxer. Two plates three feet above the water line were smashed and a couple of frames were broken.

The disaster twelve years ago occurred early in the morning of April 8 within twenty miles of the scene of today's fire.

Ontario Captain in Three Fires at Sea

Captain William J. Bond of the liner Ontario, rated one of the best skippers in the Merchants & Miners' service, has brought his vessel to safety in three fires at sea through his cool-headedness. He is a former Boston man, now living in Baltimore.

In 1905 cotton caught fire in the Kershaw, of which he was captain. The passengers were panic-stricken. Unable to put out the fire in the hold, Captain Bond had the flaming bales derricked out, one by one, and dropped into the sea.

In 1912, aboard the old Ontario, the deck was literally burned out from under him in a similar fire. His clothing was burned and his face and eyes scorched. But not a passenger was awakened until after he had safely beached the craft on Montauk Point, Long Island, N. Y.

He has commanded vessels plying into Boston for more than thirty years.

CUNARDER HALTS TO GET INJURED SAILOR

New London, May 9.—The Cunard Liner Berengaria, due in New York at 2 o'clock this afternoon, turned back while off Montauk Point today to meet the Steamship Major Wheeler, Boston for Baltimore, and take aboard Leon Anderson of the Wheeler's crew, who sustained a fractured jaw when a ram feed pump blew off in the engine room.

Walsh Will be Guest

The Democratic members of the Legislature will hold a banquet at the Copley Plaza the night of May 20, at which United States Senator David I. Walsh will be the guest and chief speaker. Plans for the coming fight for his re-election will be discussed.

MOTHER WHIPS SUITOR OF HER DAUGHTER

Hundreds in Maine Town See Attack on Pair Strolling in Street

Dover-Foxcroft, Me., May 13.—When Mrs. Daniel McCarvel, driving the family horse along Main street, saw her daughter walking away from her on the arm of young Mr. Hanson Hight of Guilford she did not hesitate a minute.

Lena McCarvel, still a few days shy of her 18th birthday, had been ordered by her mother to have "nothing to do" with Hight, who is five years her elder.

Mother McCarvel brought the old gray mare to a sudden stop, climbed down, hitched the animal to the nearest telephone pole, grabbed the whip from its socket, concealed it under her long coat, and hurried along Main street after the sweethearts.

HUNDREDS LOOK ON.

She reached them almost in front of the County Jail, and slash! slash! slash! down came the whip upon two young heads and two pairs of shoulders.

The unusual assault was witnessed by hundreds of mill-workers, released a few minutes before from their work in local factories.

Hearing the yells of the crowd and the cries of Miss McCarvel, Turnkey John H. Wentworth rushed from the jail and pulled the rawhide from the hands of the infuriated mother.

MAN'S FACE CUT.

Hight, his face badly cut, urged his sweetheart to "bear with things, at least for a few days longer," and then hurried to the office of a physician, to have his wounds dressed.

Mrs. McCarvel's explanation of the sensational affair was that she "knows what is best" for her daughter.

"God has given me a duty to perform with respect to this girl," declared the mother, "and with His help I am going to do it."

Young Hight, his friends say, may decide to bring the horsewhipping incident to the attention of the Piscataquis Municipal Court.

gruesome duty. He was to get "$50 a head" for doing the work.

LAST FAREWELLS.

The men, four of whom are subjects of the King of Italy, and the other two naturalized Americans, were to be hanged in Paris, according to alphabetical order. Joseph Bocchio was to plunge through the trap with Natale Deamore; Joseph Giglio and Andrew Lamantia and Roy Leona with Joseph Rini.

Prison officials and military guards allowed them to see no one today. Last night the prisoners bade farewell through iron bars to mothers, fathers, wives and children. It was a touching scene. Children cried; women wailed.

One of the doomed men, Bocchio, tried hard to be brave today. To the jailer he said:

"I am ready to die this very minute. I am but waiting for the hand that will pitch me from this garden of sorrow. If my eyes have wept on this bitter morn, I say they have not wept for me but for my mother. How she must suffer?"

SURROUNDED BY MOAT.

The trapdoors of the gallows were in the centre of a platform twenty by fifteen feet square. Underneath was a movable rack for physicians to stand to examine the bodies.

The jail and courthouse, in the centre of a large square, was surrounded with patrols of national guardsmen. Another line of guards paced back and forth along a rope barrier strung about the jail at a distance of about thirty feet.

The square was surrounded by a ditch and Adjutant-General Toombs had it filled with water yesterday. It made a moat around the square from a few inches to two feet in depth and from four to ten feet in width.

Fitchburg, May 9.—Miss Helen Nelson, through her father, Victor Nelson, has entered suit in the Superior Court for $5,000 against John Talix of this city for injuries suffered when she was attacked by a vicious dog belonging to Talix some time ago.

DEATH COMES TO C. O. POWER SUDDENLY

Champion of War Veterans and Mill Workers Expires at Brighton Home

ablest and best known newspapermen in New England. His death occasioned profound sorrow in newspaper and political circles and to thousands of mill workers, who won their fight for better wages and working conditions as a result of his brilliant and sympathetic writings.

But the most poignant grief is felt among the disabled war veterans and their families, whose love for Mr. Power was almost reverence because of what he had done for them since the armistice.

Charlie Power was one of those quiet, unassuming heroes whom fate did not place in the combat area during the World War, but who played an important role in the front rank of those who fought for the welfare of the troops and the country at home.

VETS' CHAMPION.

Mr. Power sacrificed comfort and leisure and home life and even his health in championing the cause of disabled veterans.

He gave unstintingly of his time and his energy in behalf of them and their dependents.

A scholarly series of articles which he wrote and which were produced in all the Hearst newspapers throughout the country were conceded to have had a tremendous weight in shaping legislation in behalf of the ex-service men.

Mr. Power made an intensive study of the rehabilitation of wounded veterans. He was chairman of the board of morale and discipline of the Veterans' Bureau before writing the series of articles which made an impression all over the country.

VISITED HOSPITALS.

He had also acted as an advisor. His work brought him to the cots of the disabled men and their stories and condition stung him to the heart. This sympathy inspired his writing. The articles were entitled "The Broken Pledge." They dealt with the country's failure to properly provide for the men who had contributed life, limb and health in the world's greatest emergency.

After leaving the Federal service to resume his journalistic work, Mr. Power personally investigated and adjusted the claims of thousands of soldiers throughout New England.

After officially severing his connection with the Federal Board Mr. Power kept in touch with veterans in need and his fame as a good samaritan among them spread.

AIDED FRENCH ACE.

It was Charlie Power who made the fight for Herman L. Chatkoff, the French ace, who, because of improper transfer found himself a man without a country for a spell, with skull fractured after a crash in action and no funds or prospects of compensation from either country. Chatkoff, an American, had served with Norman Prince, Lufberry and Thaw in the Lafayette Escadrille. Because he had never been properly transferred to the A. E. F. his claims were ignored until Charlie Power took up his case and secured recognition and hospitalization.

Mr. Power was born in Springfield, November 9, 1867, the son of David and Mary O'Connor Power. His father was the first Democrat elected to the Legislature from Hampden County. Charles was graduated from Springfield High School and from Williston Academy in 1884. Although fond of politics he never ran for office but he was a factor in the Western part of the State as a young man. He was chairman of the Democratic City Committee in Springfield at one time.

LABOR OF LOVE.

He chose newspaper work as his calling and dedicated his life to it. Journalism with "Charlie" was a labor of love and recreation. He early discovered that it afforded him a medium in which to help the masses. He was a student of economics and industrial conditions. His articles during the recent textile strikes in New Hampshire, Massachusetts and Rhode Island were factors in the settlements.

He was versed in legislation and parliamentary law. He was as able a speaker as he was a writer, a rare combination. He began his newspaper career as a reporter on the Springfield Republican, and later became managing editor of the Springfield News. He was city editor of the Worcester Post, and joined the staff of the Boston American soon after it was founded by Mr. Hearst.

He served as political reporter and later as Sunday editor. He was made secretary of the Panama-Pacific Exposition, and also served as Massachusetts representative and secretary at the San Francisco Exposition. In 1912 he was appointed manager of publicity for the city of Lawrence. It was he who conceived and staged the memorable "Flag Day" in which thousands of school children participated, which had a softening influence on the textile strike.

He and the late Clement Pollock organized the Independence League and conducted the campaign. Power served as field manager. His ability as a chairman and orator served him well at that time. He was secretary to Mayor Curley during his first term. It was during the war that he served on the Board of Morale and Dicipline and other activities connected with the New England Branch of the War Veterans' Bureau.

FUNERAL TOMORROW.

Never any thought of self. That was one of "Charlie" Power's finest traits. The plight and troubles of others were his troubles, if he could help. He was intensely sympathetic. But the mainspring of his life was loyalty — loyalty to his family, loyalty to his employes and to his country and to his God.

Mr. Power was married to Jennie L. Hale, of Springfield, thirty-one years ago. He is survived by his wife, his son, Hale Power, an attorney attached to the City Law Department; another son, Thomas Power, employed in the circulation department of a Boston newspaper, and Miss Helen Power, the only daughter, who also is an attorney.

The funeral will be held at 9 o'clock tomorrow from St. Aiden's Church, Brookline. There will be a solemn requiem mass. Burial will be at 2:30 p. m. in the family lot in St. Michael's Cemetery, Springfield.

The pallbearers for Mr. Power will be:

Bert Ford	Dr. Wm Kenefink
Henry L. Dally	Jas. W. Reardon
William Blake	Frederick Minton

Honorary bearers include: James M. Curley, E. Mark Sullivan, General Clarence R. Edwards, Colonel E. F. Tandy, Alfred L. Southwick, Robert J. Gillis, J. F. Cullen, Edgar D. Shaw, General Edward L. Logan, Major James T. Duane, Norman E. McPhail, William Quilty, chief of police, Springfield; Barrett Andrews and Walter C. Howey.

Mr. Power's remains will leave Boston on the train for Springfield departing at 10:00 a. m., Eastern Standard time, from the South Station.

The varied accomplishments of George Edgar Nelson, shabby beggar by day, man-about-town at night, extended to putting a bit of curl in Milady's hair.

Up to now George has been registered in police minds chiefly as an alleged "Peeping Tom," and burglar.

But it seems that George, maybe on rainy days when he was not working, became a home body in his apartment at No. 47 Julian street, Roxbury.

There he was wont to put a bit of a twist here and a bit of a twist there in his attractive wife's shingle bob.

BURNED WIFE'S SKIN.

Sometimes the hot curling iron slipped a mite and sizzled the fair skin of Mrs. Nelson, she told a neighbor. On such occasions Mrs. Nelson, being a normal wife, would scream.

The screams necessitated her notifying the neighbors of the proficiency of George at shingle curling. She didn't want the neighbors to think George was anything but a gentleman, she said.

George did not wave his curling iron yesterday. He did not wave it today. George is in the Charles street jail awaiting bail.

None of the Nelson family, George, Mrs. Nelson [illegible] daughter, has returned to the Julian street [illegible] since the beggar was taken into the toils.

[illegible] house [illegible] was [illegible] of a fine old estate. [illegible] new house, of excellent [illegible] and in fine condition. The [illegible] neighborhood is one of staid respectability.

As [illegible] families live in the house, but after next Tuesday [illegible] there will be only four families living in the house. The Nelsons must go. This was declared by the landlady today. Tuesday will begin the third month of the Nelsons' tenancy at $32 per for a living room, bedroom, cozy kitchen and bath.

PLANNED AUTO TOUR.

They furnished the place with new furnishings when they took occupation nearly two months ago. In addition to the living room—a symphony in blue—they bought a walnut set for the bedroom, the mirrors being of bevelled glass.

In the kitchen is a gate leg table and Windsor chairs, the sort of furniture a family of taste and discrimination, with the money to back them up, would have in a kitchen used also as a dining room.

A brand new auto was soon to be theirs, according to the landlady. They had several demonstration rides and Mrs. Nelson confided that they would purchase the car within a week.

According to the wife, they planned a trip through the northern States and Canada during the Summer.

One thing struck the neighbors of the Nelsons' as strange, although they gave it no analytical thought. The beggar—believed by the neighbors on his own statement to be a lawyer's clerk—never went to work on rainy days.

In a conference in his lobby, Judge Doe agree to a temporary arrangement of family affairs proposed by lawyers representing husband and wife.

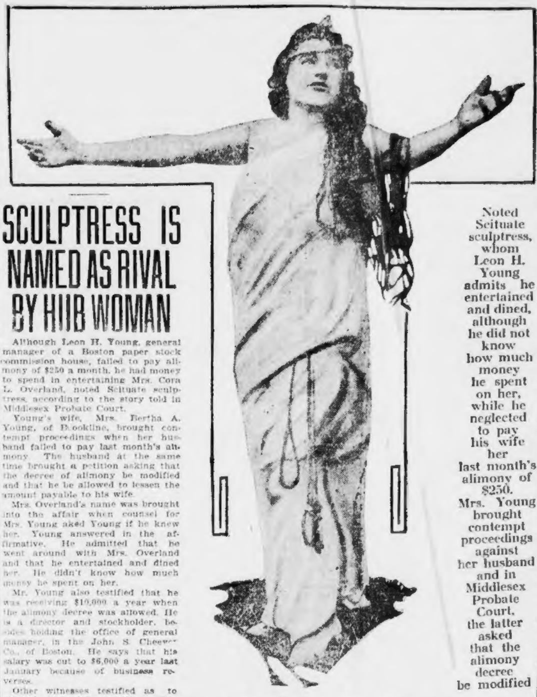
PROMINENT IN DIVORCE CASE



Noted Scituate sculptress, whom Leon H. Young admits he entertained and dined, although he did not know how much money he spent on her, while he neglected to pay his wife her last month's alimony of $250. Mrs. Young brought contempt proceedings against her husband and in Middlesex Probate Court, the latter asked that the alimony decree be modified

MRS. CORA L. OVERLAND

SCULPTRESS IS NAMED AS RIVAL BY HUB WOMAN

Although Leon H. Young, general manager of a Boston paper stock commission house, failed to pay alimony of $250 a month, he had money to spend in entertaining Mrs. Cora L. Overland, noted Scituate sculptress, according to the story told in Middlesex Probate Court.

Young's wife, Mrs. Bertha A. Young, of Brookline, brought contempt proceedings when her husband failed to pay last month's alimony. The husband at the same time brought a petition asking that the decree of alimony be modified and that he be allowed to lessen the amount payable to his wife.

Mrs. Overland's name was brought into the affair when counsel for Mrs. Young aked Young if he knew her. Young answered in the affirmative. He admitted that he went around with Mrs. Overland and that he entertained and dined her. He didn't know how much money he spent on her.

Mr. Young also testified that he was receiving $10,000 a year when the alimony decree was allowed. He is a director and stockholder, besides holding the office of general manager, in the John S. Cheever Co., of Boston. He says that his salary was cut to $6,000 a year last January because of business reverses.

Other witnesses testified as to Young's financial standing. The hearing will be continued today.

'BUSTED' RADIO SET TOO MUCH FOR HUSBAND

Chester Savage of No. 19 Grafton street, Arlington, says he showed self-control when his wife, Laura, kicked a cut glass bowl off a chair and broke it.

Chester even forgave Laura for being absent from home last Thanksgiving, Christmas and New Year's.

He overlooked, he says, the fact that Laura was absent from home fifteen nights during the month of January last. But——

One day Laura had a burst of temper and smashed Chester's radio set. That was the w. k. straw that busted the camel's back—and the Savage home.

Chester appeared in Middlesex Probate Court today before Judge Chamberlain seeking separation. Besides the foregoing details of his home life, Chester testified that his wife neglected to get meals for him and would not wield the dishcloth.

The Savages were married September 9, 1920. Chester said he went home February 7 of this year and found two furniture trucks loading up his household goods.

Laura left with the goods, Chester testified, taking with her his army kit.

THREE SLAYERS PAY PENALTY, 1 BEING 70

Eddyville, Ky., May 9.—Kentucky's first triple execution by electrocution was completed early today when Frank Thomas, George Weick and Charles Miller, the latter a negro, paid the penalty of death for murder.

The executions were completed in forty-six minutes.

Thomas, past seventy, and the oldest man ever executed in the State, was sentenced for the murder of Lee Arbegust, a friend and benefactor, in Jefferson County. Weick died for the murder of William Oelke, near Louisville, and Miller was convicted of the murder of two railroad guards in Breckinridge County.

SOVIET DELEGATES PLAY WAITING GAME

London, May 9.—Endorsing the view expressed by well informed observers that the Anglo-Russian conference may result in a fizzle, the Daily Telegraph's political expert today says the Russian delegates are doing all possible to draw out the negotiations.

"They now seem less eager for agreement than when Lord Curzon was foreign minister," he adds. "Perhaps they do not believe that MacDonald's government will last long, and prefer to wait for his successor.

The writer represents Premier MacDonald as being seriously annoyed by the Soviet attitude.

New York Bound Liner Hit by Freighter in Fog Near Quebec

Father Point, Que., May 9.—The Royal Mail steam packet liner Orca, bound with passengers from Europe to New York by way of Quebec, where she landed passengers yesterday, collided last night in a dense fog about fifty miles east of here with the steamer Porsanger.

The Orca was hit amidships and a hole torn in her side about fifteen feet above the water line.

The bow of the Porsanger was crumpled and her stern twisted. No one was injured and it was stated the liners were able to proceed.

The Porsanger, a Norwegian freighter, was on her way from Hamburg, via Shields, England, for Montreal. The Orca, of 16,000 tons was said to be taking water, but able to control the intake with her pumps. The Porsanger is a 4,267-ton vessel.

GOVERNMENT BOATS USED TO RUN RUM

Ottawa, May 9 (I.N.S.).—Government owned boats are openly used in the rum-running trade between Canada and the United States, it was charged today by Senator James B. Taylor.

He said he had affidavits regarding rum running carried on by ships in the service of the Canadian government.

Taylor's charges followed on the heels of other allegations to the effect that prominent Canadian politicians were the real backers of "international rings" that had smuggled beer and whiskey into the United States in huge quantities.

It was intimated that an immediate Senate investigation will follow.

POLICEMAN IS HURT BY SPEEDING AUTO

Pittsfield, May 9.—Patrolman John R. Meacham, thirty-three, of No. 14 Noble avenue, is at House of Mercy Hospital with both legs and his right shoulder broken as a result of being struck by an automobile. The car is said to have been operated by George L. Forbes, twenty-nine, a traveling salesman of No. 51 Boylston street, a former Pittsfield reserve policeman. Forbes was later held in $10,000 for speeding away after an accident. A hearing will be held May 16.

$2,962,122 DAMAGE BY CATTLE PLAGUE

Sacramento, May 9.—A report filed today by the State Department of Agriculture gives the total loss to date in California from the foot and mouth disease as $2,962,122. Of this amount $35,000 is represented by property and equipment and the balance is slain stock.

The report shows that a total of 77,659 head of stock was destroyed since the plague started.

HOLD UP ACTION ON CORCORAN DISBARMENT

Proceedings on the Boston Bar Association's petition looking to the disbarment of William J. Corcoran former District Attorney of Middlesex County, were suspended in Supreme Court today when Judge James B. Carroll raised the question of expediency at this time.

Addressing Attorney James J. McCarthy, representing the Attorney-General, Judge Carroll said:

"Do you think it wise to press the matter at this time?"

Attorney McCarthy, remarking that he had not thought of the proceedings in that light," said he would give the matter consideration and no further action was asked for at this time.

Judge Carroll, however, told Mr. McCarthy that he would hear him at any time if he insisted upon it.

While Judge Carroll did not mention it, it is presumed he had in mind the fact that exceptions filed in behalf of Corcoran in the recent so-called blackmail trial in Middlesex County are going before the full bench of the Supreme Court.

If these exceptions are overruled, there would be no necessity of a hearing on the disbarment proceedings, as Corcoran, having been convicted and sentenced to seven to ten years in State prison, would be automatically disbarred.

The Bar Association charges Corcoran with gross misconduct, deceit and malpractice; that he extorted money by blackmail; that he employed women of loose moral character to entrap men to the end that he might levy blackmail; that he publicly stated on many occasions that he had extorted large sums of money from men.

GILLETT OUT FOR SENATE

Three-Cornered Fight for Nomination Splits Ranks of the Republicans

A three-cornered fight is on in Massachusetts over the G. O. P. nomination for United States Senator.

F. H. Gillett

The latest complication came today when a dispatch from Washington announced that Speaker Frederick H. Gillett of the House had definitely decided to be a candidate for the nomination.

A few hours earlier, Congressman Frederick W. Dallinger of the Eighth Massachusetts district definitely tossed his beaver into the ring.

Louis A. Coolidge, the third Republican aspirant for the place on the ticket has been a candidate for months. The serious break in the ranks of the party, which leaders sought to forestall by having Governor Channing H. Cox run as the organization candidate, occurred within a few hours after the Governor announced definitely that he would not run.

HASTY CONSULTATION.

News of the Governor's refusal to make the race was wired to Washington. Within an hour or two Congressman Dallinger, who long has had an eye on the Senatorial seat, wired back to friends in Boston that he would definitely be a candidate.

Dallinger is not acceptable to many of the party leaders. As a result of hasty consultation among the leaders, Speaker Gillett was pushed forward tentatively to block the Dallinger boom if possible.

Today Speaker Gillett made a hasty visit to the White House. Just what transpired there is not known, but it is generally believed that President Coolidge urged the Speaker to enter the fight. A few moments after leaving the White House Gillett announced that he was in the race for the toga of Senator David I. Walsh.

ATTEMPT TO FREE LAMONT

Cleared by Giving Up $10,000 and Confessing to Destroying Records, Counsel Claims

An attempt to purge James S. Lamont, president of G. F. Dedmond & Co., Inc., of the contempt of court order that keeps him in East Cambridge Jail, was made today in United States District Court by James H. Vahey, his counsel.

The lawyer argued that Lamont, having delivered up the $10,000 in securities he was ordered to produce and having confessed to destroying the records named, he has cleared himself.

The freedom move was combatted by Bartholomew Brickley, one of the three receivers for the closed brokerage house.

Lamont and three other witnesses testified during the "release hearing." Matthew Galligan of No. 21 Newcastle road, Brighton, salesman for Blake & Rebhan, printers and stationers, testified that his firm had made six binders for the Redmond concern on a special order.

IDENTIFIES BINDER POSTS.

He identified the binder posts "exhumed" by Lamont at Natick, where he burned the binders, as of the six special order binders. Later, however, Galligan declared that only three of the posts were of the special order.

Graham McSorley, former Redmond employe now employed by the receivers, identified blotter sheets and said they would fit in the binders.

Testimony by Lamont, given during the bankruptcy hearings, that he had destroyed six books, was offered in evidence. Receiver Brickley objected, but Vahey pointed out that the receivers previously had offred similar bankruptcy hearing evidence.

LAMONT QUESTIONED.

John R. Diggins of Jamaica Plain, brother-in-law of George F. Redmond and former Redmond cashier, refused flatly to answer all questions put to him by Receiver Brickley, with reference to Redmond records.

Prior to the contempt hearing Lamont was questioned at a continued bankruptcy hearing by Receiver Brickley regarding two binders still missing. Lamont said he could not recall whether he had thrown them in the lake or had otherwise disposed of them.

"Were you drunk that night?" asked Brickley. "I was," Lamont replied.

"Were you drinking very heavily?" "I was, quite heavily. My memory is not clear about what I was doing that night."

"As a matter of fact, are you certain you destroyed the books?" "Yes."

"As a matter of fact, the H. L. Williams office was Redmond, wasn't it?" "No, certainly not."

Digs Up Remnants

JAMES S. LAMONT
Digging on his estate in Natick for the binders of six of the books of the G. F. Redmond & Co., Inc., he says he burned and buried there.

CHILDREN CHEATED, POLICE SAY

Sale of Candy That Sometimes Drew a Prize Is Ordered Stopped by Wilson

Police Commissioner Wilson today issued orders for the arrest of all Boston storekeepers who have failed to heed a warning given recently to stop the sale of a certain brand of candy wherein a prize was offered as an inducement to get the pennies of small children.

The scheme, according to the police, was to sell chocolates at one cent each to the youngsters. In a box of chocolates there was one with a pink centre. The others had white centres. The child getting the pink centre received a half-pound box of candy as a prize.

The police claimed that many storekeepers removed the pink centred chocolates and that the youngsters were bucking an unbeatable game. Orders were given to stop this practice. Now it is reported some of the shopkeepers have resumed the lottery.

Commissioner Wilson has ordered all officers to investigate and ask for warrants for each shopkeeper found selling the candy.

H. G. WELLS BACKS BIRTH CONTROL.

London, May 9.—Limitation of the population is of vital importance, according to the petition which H. G. Wells, the author; Miss Dorothy Jewson, Labor member of Parliament, and others of Hon. Mrs. Bertrand Russell's birth control committee presented to Minister of Health Wheatley today.

The deputation asked that the doctors at the government maternity and welfare centres should be permitted to give birth control information to those desiring it. In refusing the request Mr. Wheatley said that in cases where birth control advice was advisable on medical grounds the patient should be referred to private doctors or to hospitals.

FREE STATE TO LET DIVORCE LAW STAND

Dublin, May 9.—It is authoritatively stated that the Dublin government has no intention of altering the law so as to provide for complete divorce. A number of persons, desiring to remarry after having obtained judicial separations from the Irish courts, achieved that end by promoting private legislation in the British Parliament. Others now are appealing to the Free State Parliament to pass private legislation.

It is argued on the one hand that the Free State should not grant complete divorces, and on the other that Protestants should not be expected to lose an advantage which before the creation of the Free State they possessed as British subjects.

WIDOW TELLS OF HER LOVE FOR TOUPIN

Fiancee of Lt.-Gov. Wishes Miss Olivier Had Maintained Silence

New Bedford, May 9.—"They call Miss Olivier the 'girl of silence.' How fine, if she had only lived up to her name!

"Governor Toupin often spoke of her as a family friend. He never told me they were engaged and I don't believe they were."

Mrs. Della A. Sorel, a widow, was telling her story of her engagement and coming marriage to Lieutenant Governor Felix A. Toupin of Rhode Island, against whom Miss Josephine Olivier, Central Falls school teacher, started suit for $20,000 and then withdrew it.

"This affair has been very painful to me," said Mrs. Sorel at her home, No. 288 Earle street. "I was in New York buying my trousseau when the news of the suit reached me.

"I have never seen Miss Olivier. I understand I am of a very different type from her.

"Governor Toupin told me they never were engaged. I believe him so well that we are to be married Memorial Day.

"I love Governor Toupin. And where love exists there is always perfect faith.

"That is why I am convinced this suit which Miss Olivier started to file and later withdrew is what the Governor charges it is—a political frame-up.

Betty Alden Tells of Wedding Plans of Miss Evelyn Walker in Brookline

By BETTY ALDEN

Miss Evelyn Walker has selected her attendants for the ceremonial which will transform her into the bride of John MacDuffie 2nd of New York.

Evelyn Walker

The wedding will be solemnized in the First Parish Church of Brookline on Saturday, May 31, at high noon. A wedding breakfast will follow at the Upland Road home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Walker.

Mrs Lindsay Bradford (Katherine Walker) is coming on from Gotham to attend her sister as matron of honor. There will be eight bridesmaids, including the Misses Dorothy Powning, Harriet Royce, Grace Sargent, Barbara Stone, Frances Thompson, Nina Underwood and Margaret ("Pit") Williams, all of Boston.

The prospective bridegroom, a Harvard '23 man, will have as best man his brother Marbury MacDuffie. They are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. Rufus L. MacDuffie of Gotham.

Miss Walker, who made her debut two Winters ago, is a tall, slender girl of pure blonde type. Her host of friends will be interested to know that she and Mr. MacDuffie are to make their home in Brookline upon returning from the wedding journey.

Apropos of the bridal attendants mentioned above, Miss Nina Underwood will herself join the list of "Married Maidens"—as the Social Register calls them—less than a fortnight following the MacDuffie-Walker nuptials.

Miss Underwood's marriage to David Hunter McAlpin, 3rd of New York will draw a fashionable throng to the Belmont Unitarian Church on June 11. The bride-to-be is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Loring Underwood of Belmont.

Miss Harriet Royce and Miss Margaret Williams, also of the MacDuffie-Walker wedding entourage, are the respective fiancees of Sidney Hosmer, Jr., and Harvey L. Williams. Miss Royce, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick P. Royce of Dedham, is at present enjoying a sojourn at Hot Springs.

After a Winter at their estate in Pau, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick H. Prince have returned from France to their Wenham estate, known as "Princemere."

FIRE DESTROYS 20 AUTOS IN ROSLINDALE

A fire of suspicious origin swept the automobile storage warehouse of Burnett and Sherman at Washington street and the West Roxbury Parkway, Roslindale, destroying more than twenty new automobiles.

The fact that the mess hall in Caledonian Grove, West Roxbury, was destroyed by a fire of undetermined origin less than twenty-four hours previously caused the police to suspect that both blazes may have been set by firebugs.

Police estimated damage to the building at $2,000 and to the automobiles at $12,000. Bennett and Sherman placed the loss to the stock at $24,000.

SEE DEATH TO HUGHES COURT IN LODGE PLAN

Bay State Senator's Proposal Believed to Have Coolidge's Sanction

Washington, May 9 (I.N.S.)—Senator Henry Cabot Lodge has administered a long-time sleeping potion to the Harding-Hughes proposal that the United States adhere to the World Court of Justice set up by the League of Nations.

This was the well-nigh unanimous opinion today of both Republicans and Democrats, following the presentation by Senator Lodge of a brand-new World Court proposal, which will take the United States into a court entirely divorced from the league and modelled after the old Hague Tribunal.

Whether the Lodge court has the support of President Coolidge was a matter of keen speculation today. The White House maintained silence.

There is reason to believe, however, that President Coolidge was acquainted with the outline of the Lodge plan before its presentation to the Senate, and those who favor it point out that the new proposal follows generally the ideas heretofore expressed by the President as to the kind of a world court the United States should join.

President Coolidge has never warmly espoused the Harding Hughes proposal that the United States adhere to the league court with reservations, although he has commended it on two occasions—in his first message to Congress and in his recent New York speech.

In both instances, however, he confined himself merely to recommending it to the "favorable consideration" of the Senate and the country. He has consistently refrained from any effort to force action upon it.

Republican Senators who have steadfastly opposed the Harding-Hughes proposal accepted the Lodge plan today as a substitute for the Harding-Hughes, and privately declared it meant a knockout blow for the latter. Denied the support of odge and his associates on the werful committee on foreign re- ons, they did not see how the gue court could possibly be ratified by the Senate.

O MORE OIL LANDS VAILABLE FOR NAVY

ashington, May 9.—All govern- lands which might be available as naval fuel oil reserves have leased to private interests, E. Finney, assistant secretary of the rior, testified today before the ate Public Lands Committee. etween 12,000 and 15,000 leasing ermits have been granted covering all government productive oil fields, Finney said.

FORMER POLICEMAN AND HIS ACCUSER

MRS. M. E. BOWLEY AND L. P. CRONIN

Lawrence P. Cronin, former policeman attached to the Fields corner station, must stand trial again for alleged attempted criminal assault on Mrs. Margaret E. Bowley of Monadnock street, Dorchester, mother of three children. The first trial was taken from the jury when Cronin's counsel charged that Judge Dubuque had prejudiced Cronin's constitutional rights. When it came up before Judge John F. Brown, counsel for the ex-policeman asserted his client could not be placed in jeopardy again for the same offense. The Supreme Court, however, decided that legally there never has been a trial.

ACCUSE GIRL AS BOOTLEG AIDE TO FATHER

A 13-year-old Brighton schoolgirl was "pinch hitter" for her father in the sale of liquor at their Wexford street home, it was declared in Brighton Court today.

The father, Jesse Valantti, was arraigned on charges of keeping and exposing liquor for sale and illegally selling liquor at No. 70 Wexford street. Eventually he appealed a sentence of one month each on the two charges.

George Hyson of Appian Way, Allston, was remembered in Brighton Court last Monday as the man Judge Connelly had seen rambling in circles in front of the courthouse on Saturday. Hyson was up for drunkenness.

On information Hyson furnished a raid was made at the Wexford street house. Valantti was called into court. Hyson testified that he had bought liquor from Valantti at times but on Saturday, when the father was out, had purchased it from Virginia, the 13-year-old daughter.

Virginia, on the stand declared she never had sold liquor, but Judge Connelly discounted her testimony after admonishing the father for nodding and shaking his head at the girl as the testified.

The drunkenness charge against Hyson was filed after Valantti had appealed the two months' sentence and had been held in $500.

JURY HAS COURT ISSUE CALL FOR DOHENY, JR.

Refused to Answer Question on Oil Leases, Because of Fear of Incrimination

Washington, May 9.—Edward L. Doheny, Jr., was ordered today by Justice Hitz in District of Columbia Court to appear on May 16 to show cause why he should not be compelled to testify before the Senate Oil Committee.

When Doheny appeared before the jury last Tuesday he declined to testify on the ground that what he would say might tend to incriminate him. This fact was reported to the court by the Grand Jury with a request that the order be issued.

The jury's report detailed what had transpired in the Grand Jury room during the eight minutes Doheny was present. He was asked by Owen J. Roberts, special government oil counsel:

"Will you tell us about the transaction you had with Albert B. Fall on or about November 30, 1921?"

The reference was to testimony of Doheny, Sr., given before the Senate Oil Committee regarding the delivery by Doheny of $100,000 in cash to the then Secretary of the Interior.

"I am sorry, sir," young Doheny replied, "but I came before this committee in answer to a subpoena in a proceeding in which it is or may be alleged that my father, or myself, or a company in which we are interested may be made defendants.

"Neither my father nor myself nor the company in which we are interested have been guilty of any wrongdoing or transgression against the law.

"While I assert that nothing which I might say would be evidence of any wrongdoing on my part, I realize that any evidence that I might give or any testimony I might give might be used against me. I must therefore decline to answer that question on the ground that what I would say might tend to incriminate me."

DOHENY MOVES TO STOP LEASE SUITS

Los Angeles, May 9.—Dismissal of the government's suit to cancel naval oil reserve lands granted to the Doheny interests in Kern County, California, was asked in an answer filed in Federal Court yesterday by attorneys for the Pan American Petroleum Company and the Pan American Petroleum & Transport Company.

Denying all allegations of illegality and conspiracy in connection with the leases, the answer states that expenditures of approximately $10,000,000 have been made and points out that if the contracts are annulled great depreciation would result.

Dictionary Outdone By U. S. Chamber of Commerce

Cleveland, May 9.—The twelfth annual convention of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States was credited by a number of delegates with outdoing the dictionary makers in building a definition for "business."

"The function of business," said a formal declaration submitted by the Resolution Committee, "is to provide for the material needs of mankind, and to increase the wealth of the world and the value and happiness of human life."

Against this, several dictionaries define the term variously from "commercial or industrial enterprise," or "mercantile transaction," to "that which busies or engages time or attention."

LEVIATHAN REACHES PORT IN FRANCE

Cherbourg, France, May 9.—The United States liner Leviathan, from New York, May 3, landed her 250 cabin passengers for France here today, having made the crossing of 3,218 miles in five days, 14 hours, 24 minutes, or an average of 23.94 knots per hour.

BOBBED BANDIT SOBS AS SHE GOES TO JAIL

Cheering Crowds and Goodbys Missing as Celia Cooney Is Led Away to the Prison

New York, May 9 (I.N.S.)—The "bobbed hair bandit," Celia Cooney, who made an almost triumphal entry into New York a few weeks ago, left today for Auburn prison to do a ten to twenty-year stretch for robbery. The departure, in contrast to her arrival from Florida, where she was reunited with her husband, Edward, was quiet.

Two court attendants, a reporter and a few policemen were at the Jefferson Market Jail when she was put in an automobile for the ride to the Grand Central Station.

There was no great crowd at the railroad station to cheer her or tell her goodby.

The girl was red-eyed from a night of weeping. Yesterday she said goodby to her husband, sentenced to from ten to twenty years in Sing Sing, and saw her mother for the first time in seven years.

Her air of jauntiness was gone.

Ed was to start for Sing Sing also today, thus ending the reign of terror that the pair spread throughout Brooklyn for several months.

Brown University to Confer Degree on Jap Ambassador

Providence, R. I., May 9.—Announcement is made here that Brown University at its commencement exercises next month will confer the degree of LL. D. upon Massanao Hanihara, the Japanese Ambassador.

This will be the first degree conferred upon Ambassador Hanihara by an American University, and the announcement will be looked upon with special interest because Brown numbers among its distinguished graduates Secretary of State Charles Hughes.

GOLFERS DENIED 2 EXTRA HOURS' SUNDAY PLAY

Legislature Refuses Them a Noon Start on Sabbath at Franklin Park

As far as the Legislature and the law are concerned, Franklin Park golfers and other amateur Sunday sportsmen must await the hour of 2 p. m. each Sunday before indulging.

The House today shelved Mayor Curley's bill to permit amateur sports on Sundays between noon and 6 p. m.

The Mayor introduced his bill because of the overcrowding of the public links at Franklin Park, a congestion that would be relieved by the two additional hours of play.

Last Sunday the Mayor, on his own authority, gave permission to the golfers to begin at noon.

BELIEVE GIRL FLED WITH BOARDER

Boston police are searching for Jennie Mazzoni, seventeen-year-old factory girl of Broadway avenue East Saugus, and Rocco Caporial, 42, a boarder at the Mazzoni home. The couple disappeared Thursday evening. Parents of the girl do not know whether Caporial kidnaped the girl or whether the couple eloped.

The girl worked Thursday at a Chelsea factory, but did not return home from work.

Caporial, who has a wife and family in Italy, has an artificial leg, as the result of a gun-fight in Revere a year ago.

NEW ARREST IS NEAR IN R. I. MURDER

Amaral's Co-Worker Interrogated Following Finding of Victim's Apparel

Providence, R. I., May 9.—Finding of the toque worn by little Clementine Cosmo on the day of her disappearance has been followed by the statement that a second arrest in the murder case will take place within 24 hours.

Whether the expected prisoner will be accused as principal or accessory is not indicated, but because there is no suggestion that Anthony Amaral will be released from custody at once it is believed the police expect to bring in an alleged accessory.

Providence police inspectors and State law officers again have been closeted for an hour or more with Arnold Rigby, 18 years old, the young Englishman who, with Amaral, constituted the working staff of the Jordan Brothers' Echo Farm in the town of Lincoln.

Young Rigby was quizzed persistently for more than an hour, on this occasion, by Chief of Inspectors James Ahern and Assistant Attorney General George Hurley.

RIGBY NOT WORRIED.

When the examination was concluded, neither official would make a statement. Young Rigby, who has been standing by Amaral, smiled when interrogated and said he had been "instructed not to talk."

Little Clementine's toque, umbrella and one of her rubbers were picked up, according to the police, within a few yards of her first rude grave, near Cobble Hill road in Lincoln.

The finders were three schoolboys, whose names the authorities refuse to reveal.

Recovery of the few articles missing when the body of the little schoolgirl was found produced a sensation.

Within a few days after the discovery of her rude grave, one week ago last Sunday, hundreds of men and boys were thought to have tramped over every inch of ground within several hundred yards of the spot, looking for the lost toque or for possible clues to the identity of her slayer.

POLICE NON-COMMITTAL

Neither on this feature of the case nor on any other will responsible police officials make a statement, apparently carrying out an alleged order attributed to the Attorney-General's office to "put the soft pedal on" the Cosmo case.

Neither the finding of the toque nor the announcement that another arrest is due appeared to have any effect on Walter Sundlun and William Needham, Anthony Amaral's young attorneys.

"Amaral," Mr. Sundlun said, "stands pat on a reinforced alibi.

"I have always felt that there must be another arrest coming, for the very good reason that, in my opinion, the police never have had the right man."

Amaral's arraignment, charged with the child's murder, is set for Wednesday of next week in the Seventh District Court at East Providence.

Flowers for the Living

The fame of the research work and discoveries in medicine at Tufts College during the past quarter of a century has been attained largely through the brilliant work of the college professor of pathology and bacteriology, Dr. Timothy Leary.

Dr. Timothy Leary

Dr. Leary has also found time to devote to other public services. For many years he has been one of the medical examiners of Suffolk County.

Dr. Leary was born in Waltham on May 10, 1870. He was graduated from Harvard Medical School in 1897, and immediately upon graduation became a member of the faculty at Tufts. During the Spanish-American war Dr. Leary served in Cuba and Porto Rico.

Tomorrow is Dr. Leary's birthday. Send a card or letter of congratulation to him in care of Tufts Medical School, Medford.

CURIOSITY LANDS 2 THIEVES IN JAIL

An abundance of curiosity on the part of William Dean of Carver street, West End, and William Harvey of West Concord street, resulted in those two members of the light-fingered gentry starting today for three months visit to the House of Correction.

Dean and Harvey "lifted" a bag from the automobile of Charles W. Buckelew of Philadelphia while the latter was eating in a restaurant.

While examining the contents of the bag in Harvey's room they found a 45-calibre revolver. It accidentally went off and the bullet clipped Harvey in the left side. Dean ran, but was picked up later in Everett.

BOY'S CHEST CRUSHED BY PACKING CASE

Joseph Tierney, 16 years' old, of No. 18 Winship street, Brighton, is in a serious condition at the Relief Station as result of his chest being crushed by a heavy case which fell on him in the elevator of the building at No. 58 Washington street.

The lad is employed as an errand boy for F. W. Barry, Beare & Company.

30 PER CENT. SHOW SIGNS OF TUBERCULOSIS

Of Those, 7 Per Cent. Succumb to It in Bay State, Says Dr. Remick

Thirty per cent of the people in Massachusetts have obvious symptoms of tuberculosis, and seven per cent die from it, was the announcement made today at the New England Health Institute which is holding sessions at the John Hancock building.

Tuberculosis is general in the State, it was declared, but 70 per cent of the population develop enough resistance in their bodies to keep the bacilli dormant.

The statements were made by Sumner W. Remick, director of the Division of Tuberculosis of the State Department of Public Health, who told of a ten-year program devised in this State to fight the disease by curing it among children.

Massachusetts, he declared, was the first State to adopt such a campaign. Over 250,000 children will be examined and $500,000 expended. The campaign commences next September, but a preliminary survey of 5,000 children disclosed that eight per cent. showed evidences of tuberculosis.

The children who will be examined are those who are under weight, those whose parents or brothers and sisters have tuberculosis, and those who are ailing from unascertainable physical causes.

It is estimated that of those, one per cent. will require hospital care, while all the rest can be cared for in their homes with the co-operation of local physicians and local departments of health.

When boys and girls of 12 to 18 years show obvious symptoms of tuberculosis, by bacilli in their sputum, for example, Mr. Remick said, it is too late to effect a permanent cure, but if the symptoms are found in younger children cures can be effected.

The State campaign is expected in time very nearly to eradicate the disease altogether, provided the proper co-operation is forthcoming from parents.

Director Remick scoffed at the distinction between tuberculosis of the lungs and other forms, declaring that if a person had tuberculosis anywhere in the body it would eventually be transmitted to the lungs.

Many children, he asserted, show no symptoms, but have the dangerous bacillae in the glands at the roots of the lungs.

A staff of five physicians has been selected to give their entire time to the campaign, beginning in the Fall. Nurses and a nutritionist will also aid in the examination and care of the children.

GAS SHUT-OFF ORDER UNDER ADVISEMENT

The question of whether or not automatic fire-acting gas shut-offs are to be ordered installed by taxpayers has again been postponed.

Following a conference between Building Commissioner John H. Mahony, Health Commissioner Dr. Francis X. Mahoney and Chief John O. Tabor of the Fire Deptrtment, Commissioner Mahony said the matter was still under advisement.

About 3,500 gas meters are installed in Boston each year. The cost of installation of the automatic gas shut-offs has been estimated at from $2 to $4 each.

He urged immediate evacuation. Then, according to Manuel and the police, a shovel descended on him. When police entered into the fray Manuel was at bay before Mary who held a knife. One of the "cousins" disappeared but Lenti and Mrs. DeSimone were arrested.

WAR HERO LAYS BRICKS TO WIN BRITISH BRIDE

Kin of Clyde Line Head Wasted Fortune; Now Seeks to Make His Own Way

Newark, May 9.—A. J. H. Taylor, former captain in the British Air Service, veteran of three years' fighting in France with the famous Black Watch and nephew of the president of the Clyde Steamship Company, is laying bricks at the Y. M. C. A. mechanical school. He wears a soiled pair of bricklayers overalls and wields a long trowel.

"Is it true you're the son-in-law of a part owner of the Cunard Line and you married a duchess who has been disinherited as a result?" the reporter asked.

Taylor's lips broke into a frank, boyish smile.

"Not exactly that," he said. "My uncle is president of the Clyde Lines but I'm not married. No, I was only out of the army last year, you see, and I had to find something to do. Over there I was in with the social crowd and it's hard to break away."

Taylor entered the service as a private, won his commission in three years of active service, during which he was gassed, and at the end of the war was transferred to the air service, where he became a captain.

He was asked why he had not taken a position in his uncle's steamship company.

"I could have done that, I suppose," he said, "but a chap always has a handicap when he goes in like that, don't you think? The others are likely to say he's a poor boob with a pull."

"Somebody said you went through thirty or forty thousand dollars during the war. Is that right or did they get it twisted?"

"Yes, I went through quite a lot," he said. "None of us expected to come back, you know. Everybody's a fool some time in his life. I was, but that's done with."

"And was the marriage rumor entirely unfounded?"

"Not exactly—that is, you see, there is a girl. Fact is I wouldn't be here if is wasn't for her." I've got to make good before I can marry her."

FORD MUST GO IN PERSON TO WIN SHOALS

Refusal to Testify Has Aligned Senate Against His Bid, Says Smith

Washington, May 9 (I.N.S.).—Muscle Shoals is lost to Henry Ford unless he personally appears before the Senate agriculture committee to explain his offer and accept modifications, Senator Smith of South Carolina, member of the committee, said today.

Smith has been aligned with the Southern Democrats who favored operation of the mammoth power and fertilizer project by the automobile manufacturer.

"Ford's general attitude toward the committee; his refusal to accept invitations to testify personally about his offer; these have been factors which seemingly have aligned the Senate against his bid," Smith added. "Ford must appear to save Muscle Shoals; otherwise, I am sure it is the sense of the majority of the committee that his offer will be lost."

A poll indicated a majority of the committee would favor government operation of Muscle Shoals.

REVENGE SEEN IN DEATH OF SOPHIE LYONS

Police Probe Visit of 3 Men to Noted Ex-Crook Before Fatal 'Shock'

Detroit, May 10—Suspicious circumstances connected with the death of Sophie Lyons Burke, who after a life of crime on two continents "went straight" and made a million dollars in honest investments, have led the police to go into the underworld seeking confirmation of their story that she may have been killed for "squealing."

Sophie Lyons
Int. Newsreel Photo.

Mrs. Burke died at the age of seventy-six and Dr. G. H. Campau, who attended her at a local hospital, gave the immediate cause of death as "cerebral hemorrhage." He admitted that she might have had a shock. This "shock," in the opinion of the police, may have been administered by three men who came to her home Tuesday and were locked in her room.

Mrs. Gertrude Antle, who lived in the Burke home, saw the men enter. A little while later she heard Mrs. Burke cry: "Don't! don't! Let me alone." Alarmed at this Mrs. Antle went out to seek help but when she returned Mrs. Burke was being carried away in an ambulance. The three men had disappeared.

QUEEN OF CRIMINALS.

An attack was made on her in a restaurant three weeks ago. Three men entered the place, knocked her to the floor and one of them exclaimed, "you squealed."

Living in a day when there was a glamor of romance about certain types of criminals, Sophie came to be known as the "queen of criminals" in newspaper stories and otherwise. But her record shows that she was arrested for pocket-picking and shop-lifting principally, and in connection with bank robberies where she acted as "spotter" or "stall."

Her own name was Levy and she was the child of criminals. Her fame, even in the hey-dey of her criminal career, was really a reflection of the fame of her erstwhile husband, Ned Lyons, the bank robber.

Lyons was boldness personified. One of the big jobs in which he was implicated was the robbery of the Ocean Bank at Fulton and Greenwich streets, New York City.

The loot was $1,000,000. He consorted, too, with Red Leary and Jimmy Hope and others of the boldest of evil-doers of his time.

CLEVER PICKPOCKET.

Sophie's father was a house-breaker and her mother a shop-lifter. The child took to the latter calling, and also developed into an amazingly clever pickpocket. She and Lyons lived in style on Long Island for a while. Both spent much time in prison.

In December, 1872, Lyons managed to "escape" from Sing Sing and within two weeks contrived to get Sophie out of jail by a ruse. The pair went to Canada for a long stay, but went back to New York and, from time to time, Lyons found himself behind prison doors.

While Lyons was in prison a well-known crook named Hamilton Brock began paying attention to Sophie and when Ned was released he sought to shoot Brock, but was shot himself.

Later Brock, who was known as Hambrock, informed on Lyons and the latter was shot, while he was attempting to rob a store in South Windham, Ct. When he got out of the hospital he went to jail and Sophie went away with Brock.

Dirigibles May Take Mail to Europe in Two Days

New York, May 9.—The moving of mail across the Atlantic by dirigible in less than two days' flying time was visioned today by those who heard of experiments with rigid airplanes as told by Secretary of the Navy Curtis D. Wilbur at the annual dinner of the National Security League. The department is fully alive to the value of aviation in the navy and is opposed to any separation of its aviation from its direct control, the Secretary said.

He declared the Navy Department had other things to do than deny "irresponsible statements" of individuals to the effect that our fleet has deteriorated in comparison with the fleets of other nations."

FAMILY OF SIX DROWNED IN POTOMAC

River, Rising Ten Inches an Hour, Causes Train Wreck at Harper's Ferry

Martinsburg, W. Va., May 9.—Six members of the family of William Miller, an orchardist, were drowned in flood waters of a small mountain stream ten miles from here.

Mr. and Mrs. Miller and four of their children met death when an automobile truck, in which they were returning from a fishing trip to their mountain home in Berkley County, W. Va., was swept from a bridge by the raging waters.

A flood on the upper reaches of the Potomac river also wrecked a train at Harper's Ferry today.

The river was said to be rising at the rate of nine or ten inches an hours. The collapse of a bridge was given as the cause of the deaths reported.

SMALLPOX CLOSES GRAMMAR SCHOOL

Other members of the family have been attending school regularly.

DEMOCRATS PUT FINAL TOUCHES ON TAX BILL

Washington, May 9 (I.N.S.).—The new tax reduction bill, rewritten by a Democratic-insurgent coalition, faced increased prospects of a presidential veto today as it neared final enactment in the Senate.

Supported by the insurgent group, Democratic leaders wrote into the new measure nearly all their own tax theories while recommendations of Secretary Mellon were ignored. The regular Republican leaders were confronted with so one-sided a battle for administration tax policies that Senator Smoot, majority finance chieftain, finally served notice he would no longer oppose minority amendments to the bill.

Smoot's action was taken as a complete surrender on the part of administration leaders to the coalition and as a new indication that President Coolidge planned to veto the measure. As a result of Smoot's decision, the measure was deluged with amendments which have met with condemnation from Secretary Mellon.

The bill probably will pass the Senate tonight or tomorrow, going then to conference for adjustment of rates which differ from the House compromise bill. It probably will not reach the White House for two weeks and then the President, reports said, probably would send back to Congress with a veto and a recommendation for the immediate enactment of a bill slashing 25 per cent. from all 1923 income taxes.

A score of Democratic tax proposals have been written into the bill, to date. These include the Simmons plan for normal and surtaxes, the Jones Corporation taxes, the Walsh Gift and Inheritance taxes and the McKellar proposal making public all tax returns.

The bill, as it goes to the White House, undoubtedly will be a compromise schedule adopted by the House. A comparison of the two plans follows:

NORMAL TAX.

Income.	Simmons.	Longworth.
First $4,000......	2 per cent.	2 per cent.
$4,000 to $8,000..	4 per cent.	5 per cent.
Above $8,000.....	6 per cent.	6 per cent.

SUR TAXES.

Above $10,000....	1 per cent.	1½ per cent.
$50,000	17 per cent.	17¼ per cent.
$100,000	37 per cent.	36034 ce.
$100,000	37 per cent.	36 per cent.
$200,000	38 per cent.	37½ per cent.
$500,000	40 per cent.	37½ per cent.

GIFT TAXES.

Sliding scales:

Amount.	Walsh.	Longworth.
$25,000 and over.	1 per cent.
$50,000 and over.	2 per cent.	1 per cent.
$1,000,000	18 per cent.	15 per cent.
$5,000,000	38 per cent.	27 per cent.
$10,000,000	36 per cent.	40 per cent.

Senator David I. Walsh's plan provides $25,000 exemptions on gifts to a child or parent and $50,000 exemptions on husband and wife gifts.

BOND DECLINES TO ORGANIZE CABINET

St. John's, N. F., May 9.—Sir Robert Bond, former premier of Newfoundland, has refused to re-enter public life and accept the task of forming a cabinet, as requested by Premier W. R. Warren, whose government resigned on Wednesday. Mr. Warren planned to visit Governor Allardyce today and it was understood that he would recommend that the Governor invite Sir William Coaker, president of the Fishermen's Union, to become premier.

Friends of Sir William said that he probably would decline if the post were offered him and would advise the governor to appoint Albert Hickman, head of the new Liberal party.

Mrs. Pretson Says Armstrong Stopped Machine to Cool Off the Engine

Mrs. Edna Preston of Allston, named as "the other woman" in the separate support suit brought in Middlesex Probate Court by Mrs. Mary Armstrong of Malden against Joseph Armstrong of Allston, admitted on the witness stand that she went riding with Armstrong.

She was called as a witness after testimony had been offered by detectives to the effect that they trailed Armstrong and Mrs. Preston to a lonely part of Lexington.

The woman admitted that she met Armstrong April 19 on Commonwealth avenue. She was going to the Marathon, she said. Armstrong decided to drive to Lexington to see the Minute Men parade. She went with him. Armstrong's car was a new one, she testified, and they were forced to stop in a little byway in order to let the engine cool off. It was then the detectives employed by Mrs. Armstrong saw them. They remained in the byway about half an hour.

EAST BOSTON IN 5-CENT FARE FIGHT TODAY

Elevated Trustees Hear Petitioners in Park Square Building

The drive for a reduction of carfare within the confines of East Boston, led by Representative Timothy F. Donovan of that district, will be given formal recognition by the Boston Elevated Trustees at a hearing to all persons interested at 3 o'clock today in Room 400, Park Square Building, No. 31 St. James avenue.

Representative Donovan said that he had received assurances of a large attendance, having notified the East Boston Improvement Association, the Orient Heights Improvement Association, the East Boston Women's Club, and the Jeffries Point Yacht Club.

In addition to these organizations, he has been working to secure as large a representation as possible at the hearing from the citizens of that section generally.

It is contended that East Boston, within the confines of that section, should have the benefit of a five cent carfare.

Taxi Driver Returns $75,000 in Jewels; Grins at 'Reward'

New York, May 9.—John Cody, honest taxi driver, blushed modestly today as Mrs. Charles M. Swift of Ferrisburg, Vt., thanked him profusely for returning the jewels worth $75,000 which she left in his cab.

"How can I thank you!" Mrs. Swift exclaimed.

Cody shifted uneasily.

"Words cannot express my appreciation; you did something most unusual," Mrs. Swift continued.

Cody was embarrassed and flushed.

"Words cannot express my appreciation," the woman assured him. "I'll certainly see to it that such a fine deed is not left unrewarded."

Then Cody grinned.

URGE BILL FOR HOME RULE IN SCOTLAND

London, May 9 (I.N.S.).—Home rule for Scotland was before Parliament today. The house of Commons will devote two days debating a measure conferring self-government upon Scotland, which has been under British rule since 1836, when the Scottish and English crowns were united by the accession of James VI. to the throne.

Thirty-two Scottish Laborites and twenty-three Scottish Liberals are supporting the Home Rule bill.

WOULD SWAP CATHOLICS FOR PROTESTANTS

Premier Craig Proposes Plan to Avert Crisis in Ulster Boundary Dispute

Belfast, Ireland, May 9 (AP).—Premier Craig of Ulster today told County Down Orangemen, of whom he is grand master, that as President Cosgrave of the Irish Free State did not want unwilling citizens in either of the Irish areas, he was willing to swap Catholics who wished the Free State rule for Protestants in Monaghan, Cavan and Donegal, who wanted to join with their old Ulster friends.

Premier Craig emphasized that as head of a ministry governing all creeds and classes, no act of his would drive out any one who wished to remain loyal to Ulster. It might be a good message on his part, he added, even at the eleventh hour—there was no doubt that this grave question was approaching a finality—to say to President Cosgrave and his government that they must "either drop the boundary question or let us settle by agreement."

MAN 'PROMPTED BY DEVIL' TO TRY SUICIDE

Back Bay Resident Changes Mind and Calls for Help

Charles Choroba, thirty years old, a lodger at No. 280 Massachusetts avenue, Back Bay, attempted suicide by cutting his wrist in two places. He lay down on his bed to die.

Several hours later he rushed to the street calling for citizens to summon an ambulance.

Clerks in a store at No. 278 Massachusetts avenue summoned the police and Choroba was removed to the City Hospital.

There he told police and hospital officials that "the Devil told me to kill myself."

'KING OF MAGIC' BRINGS JOY TO ORPHANS

St. Vincent's Asylum Rings With Laughter at Thurston's Stunts

Happiness in large measure came to 150 little girls who make their home at St. Vincent's Orphan Asylum, No. 52Camden street, Roxbury, when they were entertained by Howard Thurston, the king of magic, through special arrangement with the Boston American.

From the minute the famous magician found a knife, fork and spoon in the copious sleeve of Sister Superior Regina until he took the last of several dozen eggs from a derby, the kiddies laughed until they almost cried.

BIG DAY FOR KIDDIES.

It was a big day for the children: one that will live long in their memories. As Mr. Thurston and his charming young wife left the entertainment hall of the asylum they were given three lusty cheers by the youngsters they entertained.

Realizing how seldom the kiddies at this fine orphanage are entertained by outside talent Mr. Thurston, as guest of the Boston American, went there to spread sunshine. Anyone passing the institution while the entertainment was under way must have realized from the hilarious laughter of the children that they were having the time of their young lives.

After finding much silverware in the Sister Superior's sleeve, the master of magic withdrew a cigar from the nose of Peter Legres, the janitor, much to the enjoyment of the children, who love him dearly.

RABBIT BECOMES CANDY.

Then Mr. Thurston found a rabbit under the coat collar of Miss Nora Kelleher, an adult visitor, and later changed the rabbit into a box of candy while the bunny was being held by Mary, one of the little inmates of the Home.

"Is there any little girl named Jane here?" asked the magician. A little miss with lovely golden hair stepped forth. "I have a 12-year-old daughter named Jane," said Mr. Thurston, as he found a dollar bill in the mouth of the miss who stepped forth. "Now you keep the dollar," he said, as she walked back to her seat.

The fun came to a climax as the magic hat held by Catherine, another orphan, gave up its contents of nearly a bushel of eggs. Rose tried to hold them all in her arms, but many of them fell to the floor, to the amusement of the other children.

Not only did Mr. Thurston turn one rabbit into two, to the delight and amazement of the onlookers, but he also found a big white goose under the janitor's coat, which that worthy had no idea was there.

Sisters Marie, Angela, Regina and Marina also enjoyed the feats of magic.

As guest of the American, Mr. Thurston will visit the Working Boys Home in Newton Highlands this afternoon, and on Monday afternoon he will delight the kiddies at the Childrens' Hospital.

CONJURER'S HAT HOLDS MANY MYSTERIES

THURSTON AT ORPHAN ASYLUM

One of the great magician's cleverest tricks is the taking of nearly a bushel of real eggs from an old derby hat, which he did at St. Vincent's orphanage much to the amazement and delight of 150 little girl inmates. Today Thurston visits the Working Boy's Home, Newton Highlands, through special arrangement with the Boston American.

HARVARD GIVES DE MAR AN "H" AND A DEGREE

Modest Wonder Man Kept Secret That He Had Taken Course at University

Meet Clarence Harrison DeMar AA '15, and wearer of the "H."

"AA" does not mean "Astonishing Ambler" or anything like that. It means Associate in Arts, a title that the super-Marathoner has been hiding not under one bushel, as the boys say, but under several bushels.

The "H" is the track letter given him by Harvard for loping home on four occasions ahead of the Marathon pack and for smacking the long distance records into small pieces.

Who knew that the Melrose marvel was a dignified Harvard studen when he notched his Marathon running shoes for the first time in 1911? The answer is—darn few. But he was. He was taking the course that ultimately gave him his degree—one corresponding to the regular AB awarded to students of continuous residence.

DeMar took his degree as he take his Marathon laurels—by the long distance method, stretched over a long period. He had to work as he studied. He began in 1910 and finished in 1915, receiving a degree that is held by only six or seven persons in all.

The "H" is brand new. It was awarded him last night by the Harvard Athletic Committee, in recognition of his long distance victories. It is awarded on the same basis that the "H" given to Bobby Jones, golf champ, was awarded.

BRITISH PRINCESS SEES 'GREAT WHITE WAY'

London, May 9.—The Princess Royal of England, accompanied by her daugher, Princess Maud, witnessed the performance of the "Great White Way" at the new Oxford Theatre.

The Princess Royal enthusiastically greeted the manager, saying graciously:

"Your 'Yolanda' and 'Under the Red Robe' intrigued me so much that I have become a thorough going patron of Cosmopolitan productions. I hope we in England will continue to receive from America more of this kind of entertaining film plays."

"The Great White Way" has done the biggest business of any film yet shown in the West End, and the prospects are that it will continue for a record run.

HISTORY has never known a period richer in romance than the bold, riotously extravagant days when Cardinal Richelieu's red robe of power encompassed all of France. To bring this age to life on the screen has cost more than $1,500,000. Such magnificence has never before been attempted. The result is a film that will remain for years the most ambitious, the most sumptuous, the most thrilling of all picture creations.

FORBES' VIEWS ON FINANCE

—By B. C. Forbes—

B. C. Forbes

The great [illegible] is the sunlig[illegible]

Within the next few ye[illegible] most of our c[illegible] porations tha[illegible] have obtaine[illegible] capital from the public will [illegible] compelled to [illegible] sue more inf[illegible] mation and more f[illegible] informa[illegible] about the[illegible]

No [illegible] dislike for [illegible] J P Morgan. He kept his [illegible] and doings [illegible] ings, to himself. Yet [illegible] veteran of an earlier [illegible] in the [illegible] Just as [illegible] business were [illegible] extract from a book [illegible] the Rev William S R[illegible] many years rector of S[illegible] Protestant Episcopal [illegible] which Mr. Morgan was [illegible] warden:

"One morning in [illegible] Mr Morgan spoke to me [illegible] the need of more [illegible] conduct of [illegible] been some fina[illegible] West, and I asked wh[illegible] be, since [illegible]

"J P M—'The fools won't show each other their books'

"W. S R—'But you would not show your books to any one'

"J. P. M—Well, Rector, the time is coming when all [illegible] will have to be done with glass pockets'"

* * *

Why are taxes so [illegible] today? Why has America [illegible] overridden by tax-eaters? W[illegible] has the [illegible] of W[illegible] become a beehive of [illegible] vestigators, probers and [illegible] forces unnumbered?

For one reason, because of excessive secrecy perpetrated [illegible] business in the past and [illegible] hered to by too many [illegible] ened executives and boards of directors

Secrecy breeds suspicion and suspicion instigates [illegible] No other country on the face of the earth has fastened upon itself such a horde of tax-eating leeches. But the [illegible] laid to scheming politicians

The [illegible] financial [illegible] commercial [illegible] sense the [illegible] dignation [illegible] methods of pursuing [illegible]

Democracy and secrecy do not blend.

Would you b[illegible] than [illegible] ties are [illegible] New York Stock Exchange [illegible] issue any kind of report whatsoever from beginning to end of the year?

The excuse given by the Stock Exchange [illegible] for tolerating this intolerable condition is that these companies' securities were admitted to the Exchange before the rule was passed requiring the publication of [illegible] annual statements. But [illegible] is no adequate reason for not compelling these companies to [illegible] same measure of publicity as is demanded of all other companies enjoying the facilities of the institution Nothing in this world is permanent except change

Any company not willing to fall into line with modern ways should be requested to remove its securities from the Stock Exchange Companies that have so much to hide that they shrink from issuing at least an annual report are not the kind whose securities the public should be invited to absorb

Of the total of [illegible] companies having their shares listed on the stock exchange, 334 [illegible] ports only once a year [illegible] half yearly reports [illegible] issue quarterly reports

The most [illegible] [illegible] record is the increasing number now publishing quarterly reports. Even so such companies constitute only one-fourth of the total number utilizing the facilities of the institution

Happily, more and more of our most progressive companies are awakening to their responsibility towards the people in this matter of adequate publicity. [illegible] a few days ago President Sloan of General Motors a[illegible] directors had a[illegible] policy of publishing quarterly statements of earnings

Now, not many businesses are more seasonal than the automobile industry. The pet excuse, you know, for not issuing quarterly reports has always been that "our business is seasonal therefore the report for one quarter would not give an accurate picture of the probable results for the full year."

The action taken by the General Motors should stop such an excuse

Private concerns that do not get any part of their capital from the public are entitled, perhaps, to keep their affairs strictly private.

But any company that seeks capital from the public should be compelled to give to the public the fullest possible information about its earnings

IMPROVEMENT IN TRADE SLOW

R G Dun & Co's Weekly Trade Review in this week's issue, will say regarding trade conditions in Boston

There has not been much improvement in business during the past week. Unemployment in the textile centers is apparently reacting to some extent on other industries New Bedford cotton mills are reported as averaging about 60 per cent [illegible] 40 per [illegible] per cent. The demand for wool is moderate, with few price changes.

[illegible] 14 per [illegible] of New England [illegible] in March [illegible] with [illegible] Yet conditions in the shoe trade are not particularly good returns for March showing that only 21 out of 73 factories in Massachusetts were operating full time.

The cheaper grades of foreign leather are coming into the country in large quantities, and tanners find business very dull. Im[illegible] considerably less than they were a year ago. Exports are much larger. Patent leathers are the exception to the general [illegible] with an active demand.

Department stores in the New England States reported sales for March as 11 per cent below the totals for March, 1923. This decline, however was partly due to [illegible] Easter. Current business is rather slow

—By Arthur Brisbane—

(Copyright, 1924, by Star Company)

THIS column, two days since, mentioned a twelve-million-dollar bond issue, paying 6½ per cent interest, constituting a first mortgage on William Randolph Hearst's five California newspapers and five of his magazines. These properties earned a net profit of six million dollars last year, and the profit is increasing year by year.

This writer, associated with management of the Hearst newspapers for twenty-five years, knowing the stability of the Hearst organization, has purchased $200,000 of these bonds of Herbert Fleischhacker of San Francisco, and advises purchase of the bonds by those desiring a perfectly safe investment at 6½ per cent.

The bonds are in the hands of Messrs. Halsey, Stuart & Co. of Chicago and New York and the Anglo London Paris Company, of which Herbert Fleischhacker is the head in San Francisco.

These companies have been requested to set aside a limited number of bonds to be bought by employes of the Hearst organization and by individual investors among readers of the Hearst newspapers.

These bonds may be purchased outright of the firms mentioned or of any banker or broker, or if preferred they may be purchased on the partial payment plan through Halsey, Stuart & Co. of New York and Chicago.

CHICKIE

The Beautiful, but Bluntly Honest Story of a Boston Girl

By ELENORE MEHERIN

Seething Life of a Lovely Boston Girl of This Strange Today

"BUT months and months—nothing changed—"

"We're happy, aren't we? We're living. Listen, Chickie, why create troubles? I don't see that we have any particular kick—"

"You don't no?" Her lips moved. When she could control them she said brokenly: "It may go on like this [illegible]—we may grow tired and then we never will be married!"

He regarded her with leisurely astonishment. This maddened her. He [illegible] calmly, shrugging: "Well, if that's to happen and we're going to get bored with each other, I'd say it was a wonderful [illegible] if we weren't married—"

She half rose. She pressed her hands on the table. "Oh—you feel like that—do you?"

"What's the matter with you, anyway, Chickie? What's happened? Why bring this up? I thought we were happy as larks. You were!"

"You think so? You want it like this? You meant it to be like this?" She rushed on tight, shrill with excitement. "Oh, you don't care—you're satisfied! You have the gains—"

Suddenly his eyes blazed with hurt with a mounting fury. He caught her hands. "Chickie, stop! That's enough—"

She shook him off. "All right, it is!" She grabbed up her purse and half blinded with tears went rushing to the door.

The cool air touched her with forlorn shock. She hurried down the street but her ears strained wildly, listening for steps that followed.

At the corner she stepped behind a building. She looked back, clenching her hands. Oh, in a moment he would come, grab her arm, laugh at her.

Now she was a little cool and wanted [illegible].

The door swung open. She pretended to walk on swiftly. She looked back. No one was coming.

And she reached the car [illegible] then [illegible]. Weights of iron seemed hung from her shoulder bearing her down. She said to herself miserably: "Not coming—ah!"

At last she got on the car, squeezing herself in the corner. She did [illegible]. His eyes blazing with fury followed her. His hand suddenly seizing her wrists, was there like a burn.

Her frenzy ebbed. She grew miserable with a chill [illegible] disgust. She tried to go back over the [illegible] she could not remember its shrill incoherence. And now it seemed unreal, incredible. Why had she done this?

The happiness of the past weeks flashed like sun in her face: the nights they had watched the water, her head on his shoulder, the long [illegible] on the hilltop.

She was [illegible] to get off the car [illegible] began to expect [illegible] was following her [illegible] at the house [illegible] he would say [illegible] we don't want this—"

But he wasn't there. He had gone back to the office. [illegible] perhaps he was [illegible] at his window thinking of her. Oh, he would be sorry. He would pick up the telephone.

She saw him doing these things. She wandered aimlessly about her room, stopping at the bed, at the bureau, waiting. The phone didn't ring.

The night became insupportable. She felt [illegible] now [illegible]. One moment [illegible] with [illegible] the next it was called [illegible] humble.

When she was in bed going over it endlessly, fighting it off, then wooing it back, she suddenly saw his face alive with merriment as he had come swinging toward her. She saw it [illegible], then flattening in that annoyed resignation.

Mary—what did she know, lot she knew! Mary had plunged her into this.

She went into the office the next morning in a hard, steely quiet. She glanced to his window—saw a shadow. She felt her breath, hot, bursting.

At noon, typing relentlessly, she was nevertheless waiting for his form to come to the window—a boyish grin to light his mouth, full of sweet.

The noon hour passed. Janina said: "Suppose we chow together, baby? You don't seem engaged."

Janina was talkative. A young girl both of them knew was suing for divorce. The papers were full of it as they had been of the marriage a year previous. This furnished Janina with a theme.

"This comes," she pronounced with her infallible air, "of allowing youngsters to sign away their lives. As I've always held, no man under thirty, no girl under twenty-five should be allowed to contract a permanent marriage."

"Ho—Janina! Permanent anything. They don't!"

"But there's all this bother about divorce, all this unnecessary publicity. Does no good to anyone. In my town there would be trial contracts for the younger set. When the ties were found intolerable to either party, as of course, they're bound to be sooner or later, they could be set aside. Why not? Since first loves never last and yet they will take their sway."

"[illegible] Why shouldn't they last, Janina?"

"[illegible] ole dear. Nothing but the grand animal urge that sweeps everything out of its way. When it's appeased, nothing left to hold the pair together."

"Lots of first loves last. How can you know that it's only a kind of attraction?"

"By its folly, baby! By its blindness! By the insanity of its thrill. Typical case in your own mitts, ole dear. Otherwise you'd grab off the man who could give you happiness [illegible] and you wouldn't be languishing for the grand and generous Galahad of the empty pockets."

Chickie [illegible] her eyes, smiled wryly. She managed to say: "That wise you are, Janina! But watch."

"I am —"

Janina's words condemned him. Listening to them, Chickie wanted to [illegible] never look at that window again. There was no gladness left on earth.

All afternoon he worked in this building. At [illegible] o'clock she said to herself: "No. I'll not go [illegible]. Let him phone! He [illegible] I didn't mean all [illegible]."

Yet her steps took her to the alley. She waited. Girls passed. She pretended to walk back to the office. She glanced upward to his building.

Cruelly it came to her that he wasn't coming. She was alone in the narrow street.

Another day passed.

The third she was beside herself. She wrote a note, tore it up. She went into a telephone booth after lunch. And went out again without calling him. She said to herself faintly: "It's over." It was like a doom.

All afternoon she sat with her profile to his window. From the shadow he would see her. He would know that her heart was breaking. And in his quick impetuous way he would brush aside this absurd quarrel. He would grab up the phone and call to her: "Hey, there, frail, why so sad? Smile, won't you!"

She hoped for this with a [illegible] that became anguish. Five o'clock—another day gone. As she put on her hat she turned from the sight of her own face. Its prettiness hurt her. Walking down Washington street, she kept taking long breaths to hold the tears from her eyes.

Now the feeling of expectancy that had nerved her for three days was gone. She said to herself: "He won't come. He doesn't care. He [illegible] take an excuse like this. [illegible] he wanted to be done with it all."

"We may grow tired, and then we never will be married," said Chickie.

"WELL, if you're going to throw spitballs, you might's well do it good," granted Toad Brown. "I'll move, fellers, that we make him set all through recess an' throw 'em steady."

"Recess? Huh! Recess ain't enough. This is the third time he's been sent down. There ain't no use letting him off easy like that," protested Warts Hennessy. Warts, having outgrown spitballs by at least six months, was in the throes of Virtue.

"Guess you're right. Change my motion. I move instead that we give him a whole basket of waste paper and make him roll spitbals an' throw 'em [illegible]."

"It's still gives out," snickered Snub Brown.

"Aw gosh, fellers, that's fierce! Aw, gimme—" the prisoner at the bar protested violently. His red hair stuck out in damp spikes of anguish, his very freckles blazed with emotion. "A whole basket of waste [illegible] to turn in [illegible]. Aw [illegible] Toad. Have a heart."

WHO SAID IT AND WHERE

"Light sufferings give us leisure to complain,
We groan but cannot speak in greater pain."

Great pain or grief is mute, the late Dryden tells us in "Palamon and Arcite."

"Let sa[illegible]e less engage than applause.
It shows a generous mind to wink at flaws."

Picking flaws is altogether too common. All would do well to follow Young's advice given in an "Epistle to Pope."

MARKETING AND MENUS

Marketing cannot be [illegible] in books nor yet from [illegible] prices nor [illegible] parts of the country [illegible] across the street. It is [illegible] and is worth real [illegible]. Before starting to [illegible] of course you will have [illegible] your menu so perhaps we [illegible] start there.

Keep in mind that there are five [illegible] of food. First [illegible] foods more [illegible] known as protein foods. They are [illegible] poultry, fish, cheese, milk, [illegible] and [illegible] and [illegible].

Next—Starchy foods, which include bread, macaroni, cereals, [illegible] tapioca and potatoes.

And then—Fatty foods, cream, butter, bacon, salad oils, cooking [illegible].

Fourth—Fruits and vegetables, [illegible] onions, cabbage [illegible] carrots, asparagus, string [illegible] peas, oranges [illegible] bananas, lemon and all berries, [illegible].

A list of all sweets which cover sugar, candies, jellies, honey, cakes, cookies, preserves, dried [illegible] dates, syrups, raisins and currants.

Plan your meals so that you have one food out of each of the five groups at least twice each day—for instance, you may have meat only for dinner, but use milk or cheese in your luncheon menu so that you still have the flesh food twice. This rule will insure your serving balanced meals at all times.

Of course it is the protein foods that are the most expensive, so, if you want to reduce expenses, plan to serve flesh foods only twice a day.

Starches are the least expensive of the food groups, and you will notice that this includes rice, macaroni and bread. These three foods have the same starch that potatoes supply and can be substituted for potatoes for a change.

Just a word more about menu making: don't plan your menus right after you have just finished a hearty meal. You are so content [illegible] that menus made at this time always show the effect of that [illegible] anything will do feeling.

I like to plan my meals a week ahead—Sunday night always seems an ideal time, and meals planned in this way are always better in food value and variety and also less expensive than where one meal at a time is hastily planned.

Some housewives object that they can't always carry out a week's menus; they have more leftovers than they expected or unexpected company arrives, but it's really easy to substitute a leftover dish for something they had planned to make from new materials, and also easy to elaborate a simple meal into a company dinner by adding a soup, a salad and an extra frill to the [illegible].

[illegible] on this subject of menu making and next week I [illegible] give you a list of [illegible] suggested breakfast [illegible] desserts that I [illegible] help you. But [illegible] let us look to our marketing.

[illegible]

It is easy to say—"Oh, yes," and buy [illegible] the exact quantity [illegible] and no more.

Space permits us to publish only a brief resume of the Martha Lee Daily Radio Chats and Recipes. To get all of these helpful and interesting talks, listen in to Station WNAC at 10:30 a. m. Daily.

Don't Spoil Your Child's Hair By Washing It
"USE MULSIFIED"

When you wash children's hair be careful what you use. Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much free alkali, which is very injurious, as it dries the scalp and makes the hair brittle.

The best thing to use is Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo, for this is pure and entirely greaseless. It is inexpensive and beats anything else all to pieces.

Two or three teaspoonfuls is all that is required. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, which cleanses the hair thoroughly and rinses out easily. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and is soft, fresh looking, bright, fluffy, wavy and easy to manage. Besides, it loosens and takes out every particle of dust, dirt and dandruff. You can get Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo at any drug store, and a few ounces will last for months.

WAYS OF A HUSBAND

SEQUEL TO "WHEN A GIRL MARRIES"

By Ann Lisle

THE knob of my door turned with a quick rasp and was [illegible] open with [illegible] almost [illegible] at the threshold stood a [illegible] figure.

It was Tom Mason.

"Hello, [illegible]," he cried, [illegible] returning [illegible]

Ann Lisle

[illegible] for granted [illegible]

[illegible] Tom [illegible] a [illegible] Hope did [illegible].

[illegible] would [illegible] effort to [illegible] that had come [illegible] to have a welcome from me.

"Here's a good-by for the two of you," called Ralph and swung out beyond the door.

Tom got up with his heavy [illegible] which set [illegible] so noiseless and so much like that of some [illegible] jungle creature [illegible] from side to side as its muscles rippled under its great weight.

"Don't mind the privacy, do you?" he asked jocosely. Then, reaching into his pocket, he drew out a packet and laid it on the table. "It's for you," he said encouragingly.

With unwilling fingers I fumbled at the string around the box he had laid before me. Slowly and reluctantly I took off the paper and opened the box. In it was a small bag made of the finest and most gorgeous needle point in soft bronze green background with a pattern of rose and dull blue. It was mounted on a frame of dull old gold and swung from a chain of gold. It was a rare and priceless thing such as [illegible] Tom Mason [illegible] I [illegible] look up.

"[illegible]," I [illegible]. "I can't accept that."

"[illegible]," he asked easily. "[illegible] from Dais, Corinth Booth. Surely you don't think I'd be guilty of bringing Jim Harrison's wife a gift at which she'd have to [illegible] myself [illegible] some English [illegible] a bottle of [illegible] I thought [illegible]."

[illegible] I said [illegible] burning of [illegible]

[illegible] Daisy's taste [illegible] myself."

[illegible] Tom [illegible] "I'm proud of [illegible] she's really quite a [illegible] woman."

I was [illegible] to ask Tom if [illegible] were happy now [illegible] seen Evvy?"

[illegible] ated [illegible] you a [illegible] what I [illegible] Tom [illegible]

"[illegible] I [illegible] Is she [illegible] to understand what I'd a darn sight rather keep from her?"

When Tom Mason called Irma Warren "My little Irma," I had a [illegible] of vertigo at his calmly [illegible] tone.

Some of the BCLs are making a big mistake in not fishing around the short waves. I picked [illegible] still without any interference [illegible] ever from our local friend WNAC, who is on 278 meters. My receiver happens to be a single circuit one too.

FACTS— List Price $95.00 about the finest 4-tube set on the market—the

UNITED UNIDYNE RECEIVER

embodies every desirable feature. [illegible] The UNIDYNE is a UNITED product [illegible]

There are but two tuning dials which, with surprising sharpness, cover the entire range of broadcasting wavelengths. No need to wait until a local silent night to enjoy programs from distant stations.

The United "UNIDYNE" will equal the performance of any five tube set. It will always bring in stations at the same recorded setting of the dials.

The pleasing design of the cabinet, its beautiful finish make it an ornament to any home.

Ask a United dealer to demonstrate the "UNIDYNE" or write for literature and prices. Distributors will find an interesting proposition awaiting them.

"Coffee is a Safe and Desirable Beverage"

Three years' Scientific Coffee Research, made by Professor SAMUEL C. PRESCOTT at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, establishes that Coffee is a good and wholesome beverage for the overwhelming majority of adults

"I WILL say that neither in the dispassionate study of the vast literature on the subject, much of which is medical literature, nor as a result of our long-continued studies, have we been forced, as scientific men, to any conviction that well-made Coffee is harmful to the great mass of consumers and, as such, dangerous to public health and welfare. On the contrary, the more deeply we have gone into this matter, the more we have read, the more we have looked up this literature in different languages, the more firmly fixed has become the belief (in fact, I might say it is a belief so strong that it is a conviction) that for the overwhelming majority of adults Coffee is a safe and desirable beverage."

This strong endorsement of Coffee is one of the conclusions reached by Professor Prescott after the most thorough investigation of Coffee ever made. His research was scientific and exhaustive and his findings, therefore, establish the fact that Coffee is a safe and desirable beverage for the overwhelming majority of adults.

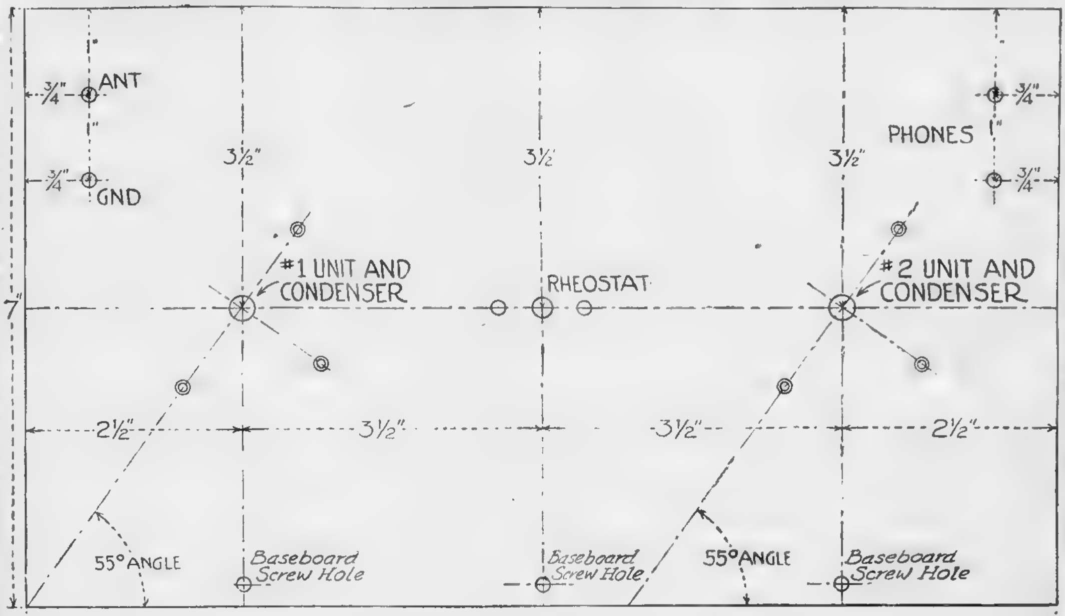
Where to Place Parts in Superflex



FULL SIZE FRONT PANEL LAYOUT SHOWING POSITION OF SHAFT HOLES

The panel layout drawing will give you the general layout for the various parts of the Superflex. The dimensions given are the actual measurements for the panel and location of holes. The exact dimensions for the rheostat and the tuning condensers will have to be determined from the measurements of these particular parts that you buy.

When you obtain your panel lay out all dimensions given in drawing and then with the templates published from day to day you will be able to spot the necessary holes for the mounting of the condensers and rheostats. One of these special drilling and spotting jigs may be purchased in the stores and will aid you in laying out the holes for the condensers, etc.

After drilling all holes, countersink those that use a flat head screw. The shaft holes can be drilled with a [illegible] inch drill. All 6-32 machine screws will require the use of a nr. 26 drill and all 8-32 screws will use a nr. 18 drill. This is for all holes where the screw is to be slipped through.

After drilling mount the two condensers, rheostat and antenna and ground binding posts, also those for the phones or if an open circuit jack is to be used, mount that. Then mount your base board.

If you prefer, there are on the market special brackets which may be used to fasten the panel to the baseboards. This makes a very neat method of mounting, and is very sturdy. After you have completed this work, you will then be ready for the baseboard layout, which will be given tomorrow.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

The most com [illegible] more [illegible]

Either of [illegible] may be sustained by a person [illegible] to know [illegible] in such a case.

The first thing to do [illegible] find [illegible] make certain what marks of injury there are on the body. Make sure the [illegible] person hasn't fainted from [illegible]

Then keep the patient perfectly still. Place him [illegible] grass along [illegible] if the accident happens outdoors. Do not permit any talking or confusion about the patient.

Elevate the head and shoulders of the victim and unless his temperature is below normal apply ice or cold compresses to the head. Do not attempt to force drinks or food down the patient's throat while he is unconscious as serious harm may result from such an attempt.

Leave the matter of all save the simple treatment for the physician, who should be summoned as soon as the accident occurs

QUESTIONS ANSWERED.

At what age should I get my baby vaccinated? He is almost a year old. Is that too young? W. A. B.

The baby should be vaccinated before teething begins. That is from three to six months or in an interval between the eruption of his teeth. If he is vaccinated before he begins to creep about he is much less likely to injure and infect the scar.

I have been told that I ought to give my baby water to drink as well as his feedings of milk. Is this all right and, if so, what quantity should I give it? N. A. H.

Boil a pint of water every morning and put into a clean bottle. Keep in a cool place. Take the chill off before giving it to baby. Give it to him between feedings from a teaspoon.

Please tell me how to treat tuberculosis in a child. I will appreciate any hints you may be willing to give me. T. P.

If the disease is found to be active prolonged rest in bed and a well balanced, simple diet containing plenty of iron bearing foods is all that is required in the way of food and treatment. Iron is occasionally of value, but cod liver oil is by far the best tonic for children. Sunlight treatment is by far the biggest single factor in the production of good results.

Is it all right for me to give my three-year-old boy meat for his dinner? H. D. B.

You may give your child broth or soup made of chicken, mutton, beef and vegetables. Scraped broiled beef or the white meat of chicken, broiled, baked or boiled fish [illegible] may be given to a child of three years. Mashed or baked potatoes or macaroni [illegible] peas, spinach, carrots, string beans or asparagus are also all right for him. Do not give candy, pie, tough meat, baked beans, pickles, cabbage, sausages or raw tomatoes to a child.

MEDBURY SAYS—

By John P. Medbury

By John P. Medbury

A WELL KNOWN veterinary surgeon has opened a training school for cats. For fifty cents an hour he teaches your kittens to catch mice.

IF you want to pay a dollar he'll give your cat personal instruction.

THIS is really the best plan, as the average maltese can't learn anything by taking a correspondence course.

THE professor also holds evening classes for cats who can't get to his school in the daytime.

HE will even give the cat lessons right in your own home providing you furnish the mice.

OF course, in his school he has mice which are hired by the month.

ANY mouse is tickled to death to work for his room and board.

ALL the mouse has to do is to run around the class room a few times and make a fool out of the cat.

IF your cat happens to catch one of the professor's steady mice it costs you a dollar and a quarter extra.

HOWEVER, you can't blame the cat. He's not supposed to know a permanent mouse from a transient one.

HE goes after them "As is."

ONE cat had been so used to being around a saloon that he'd catch three mice and then eat one on the house.

THIS professor always teaches the kittens to be gentle with the mice. No cat is allowed to kill a mouse without telling him a bedtime story first.

Little Girl Asks Aid

Editor Helping Hand

I am a poor little girl, 12 years old and I have only two dresses to my name. My mother washes out one every night so I can have it for school in the morning. A lady gave my mother a few things, but they were for my little brother. It seems we never get anything for myself or my poor mama. She wears size 44. She cannot buy anything as it takes every cent she makes working out getting the nine little ones something to eat. We also need sheets and bedding very badly. ELEANOR.

BIBLE CONTEST TO BE CLOSED TOMORROW

The last call for the Bible Contest is sounded. Tomorrow is the closing day. If you have not yet sent in your answer to the two pertinent questions propounded in this novel contest, do it now.

The questions are: "Does the World Need a New Bible?" and "Are 'The Ten Commandments' Sufficient?"

If you know your Bible, you can answer these virtually off hand. The same holds good if you know your [illegible]

COMMANDMENTS PERFECT.

"The Ten Commandments are perfect."

From Harriette N. Pray of No. 63 Howard street, Lynn, comes this letter:

"The world has no need of a new Bible, except in the sense that there is never too much fine literature. Why revise it? Indeed, who can add to the legend and romance of a day gone by?

"If an entirely new Saviour appeared on earth, our people would chronicle a new story of creation and compose a new [illegible] which to govern the world.

"As for the Ten Commandments, any intelligent person [illegible] the penalty [illegible] of natural laws [illegible] the Government [illegible] we have [illegible] that the Ten Commandments are the words of God."

Idella L. Rapp of No. 85 Franklin street, Danielson, Ct., has this to say about the [illegible]:

"We do not need a new Bible or new Commandments. Positively not. We are not able to live up to the ones we have.

"Another reason our Bible is history which can't be repeated. There is no one qualified to write a different one. Who could? We can't question the Ten Commandments. They were sent by a superman who could forsee anything that might happen in the future."

GERMANS FEAR ATTACKS BY RADICALS

Berlin, May 9 (I. N. S.).—There has been a dangerous spread of Communist strikes in the Ruhr, Silesia and Saxony during the past twenty-four hours, and it was estimated today that more than 500,0000 men, mostly coal miners, are idle.

Government officials fear that the Reds will openly attempt to seize control of the localities where the troubles prevail.

Communist agitators are active in the Ruhr and elsewhere.

German industrials are frightened over the [illegible] Ruhr [illegible] by the French [illegible]

Ninety two per cent [illegible] al mines are [illegible] The [illegible] are those covered by the so-called Micum agreements [illegible] German [illegible]

Efforts [illegible] to prevent the spread [illegible] failed.

The government [illegible] to bring miners and operators to the conference table.

The operators are confident the strike will break down through lack of funds. They declare it is kept only through "Communist terror."

Strike leaders say the walkout resulted from the effort of the government to lengthen the working shifts from seven to eight hours. There is every indication, however, that the Communists used this merely as a pretext. Flushed with unexpected success in the general election they evidently sought to make an exhibition of their industrial strength, following their political victory.

more in Hiram Johnson the faith that he has well deserved.

THE VOTE against Senator Johnson, of course, convinces the President that California isn't serious on the subject of exclusion and virtually sympathizes with his attitude.

Every Californian knows that isn't so. Many Californians will wish that they had shown more loyalty to Hiram Johnson, an honor to his State, and worthy of its support.

VIOLENT, dangerous strikes in the Ruhr, the franc dropping violently, talk of Bolshevik influences among the striking miners—such is part of this morning's news from Europe.

If Western Europe, France and Belgium, especially, want to force a combination between Russia and Germany, they are going about it in the right way.

IN FINANCIAL undertakings Bolshevism has been disappointed. Its fight against [illegible] hasn't been successful. Its effort to "make money ridiculous," as Lenin said [illegible] in the game was so highly successful that Russian money at least wasn't worth anything.

But Bolshevism has developed one business idea that will make money—whether it will be good for Russian business in general is another question.

HEREAFTER under a new Russian law, only government newspapers and other publications will be allowed to carry paid advertising. Publications, privately owned, won't be allowed to publish any advertising.

That may or may not make a financial success of the government publications, but it will surely settle the fate of the privately owned publications.

IT IS POSSIBLE to lend an aesthetic touch and a note of luxury even to a suicide.

Ernest Deshayes, French laborer, decided that he had lived long enough. He invested his money in a handsome coffin. In it he put a soft pillow, a hot water bottle and a flask of good old brandy. Then he hanged himself on a peach tree in full bloom.

FIXING UP the coffin in that way we interpret rightly as the freakish idea of a man despondent, half crazed.

But we see just such arrangements when we open the tomb of an Egyptian Pharaoh, or an African chief, and we know that they made those farewell arrangements in perfectly sane seriousness—even throwing a few wives and female slaves into the grave for good measure, in the case of the African gentleman.

GEORGE M. REYNOLDS, head of the biggest bank in Chicago, says a big boom is coming after election. Is there any reason why it should not come now? What becomes of the "level head" of business men so much talked about, if the fact that a President is to be elected impels them to postpone new enterprises or otherwise allow business to drag?

This country has got everything, from the world's gold to the world's credit, from the highest productivity to the greatest of possibilities of undeveloped wealth.

What have we got to worry about, except our own timidity?

Why They're Using Joint-Ease for Burning Feet

Just because it is now known that burning, sore, aching, swollen feet are caused by trouble in the many joints in the foot and Joint-Ease soaks right in and gets to the seat of the trouble—the cartilage and ligaments of the joints.

And to think that for generations we have been powdering and soaking our feet, thinking the trouble was only skin deep—an old-fashioned idea.

Well, better late than never—just stop the powdering and medical bathing and other foolishness for these days and just rub on Joint-Ease—and remember when Joint-Ease gets in foot agony and burning get out—quick—60 cents a tube.

All druggists sell lots of Joint-Ease.

NEWSPAPER'S REAL ASSET IS ITS SPIRIT

More Than Mere Physical Equipment Needed for Success

By E. C. ROWE

New York, May 9.—The spirit of a newspaper lives through war and political turmoil and disaster. It is not dependent on its buildings or the locality of its plants. It is a living thing that overcomes all obstacles to publication. When the people want to know what has happend, the newspaper, despite cataclysmic upheavals of nature or civilization, is at their doors with the facts.

This is no romantic imagining of what would happen in times of disaster. It has happened. The great fire in San Francisco occurred April 18, 1906. Big buildings crumbled as so many sand castles on a beach. Flames ran through the city, taking toll of property and of life, leaving in their wake a people in dire distress, short of food and with communications cut off.

GIVEN THE NEWS.

The newspaper plants in the big coast city were destroyed. Yet next to food and shelter and medical attention, the people wanted news, news of their friends, news of their neighbors, news of the extent of the disaster, news of the "outside world," and help that could come only from the outside world.

Despite the destruction that overwhelmed the city, the people got their news in two or three days. The Hearst papers were produced and distributed with but a brief interruption, though their buildings had been razed by shock and fire. On vacant lots were erected plain board shacks, with raised roofs for ventilation and water-proof paper tacked on the plank walls to protect the occupants from rain and heat. These shacks were without windows, with mere holes in the boards to let in the light.

RUNNING IN 72 HOURS.

Here in these shacks within seventy-two hours after the disaster, the presses started running and the newspapers were issued. For several days they were virtually given away to the people, for with the losses that had come upon them came also a shortage in small change. Within a week paid circulation was normal. The newspapers lived, lived through disaster that had destroyed physical equipment, but that could not quell the indomitable spirit which is the newspaper.

The spirit of a newspaper is more valuable than its physical properties. I have discussed this in detail because of a quotation that came from readers contemplating the purchase of bonds of the Hearst Publications, Inc. 6½ per cent. first closed mortgage. What would be the effect on the five newspapers published by this big concern in California should one or all their plants be destroyed?

SPIRIT AND SERVICE.

History gives the answer. The five newspapers published as quickly as the news staff could gather the news, as readily as the business staff could fling together a makeshift plant, as promptly as the mechanical staff could set up the presses.

It is that imponderable spirit which builds and holds the circulation of a publication, be it a newspaper or a magazine. Service to the readers is back of the pages of the five newspapers and five magazines owned by Hearst Publications, Inc. How shall you measure the value of service except in terms of service?

By the spirit and service the newspapers have been developed from relative insignificance to a combined net paid circulation of 627,000 on week days and 715,000 on Sundays and the magazines to a combined monthly circulation of 2,675,000.

SECURITIES AMPLE.

The properties, aside from several Associated Press franchises and the circulation of ten leading publications, are valued at $8,500,000. Net current assets as of February 29 were close to $9,600,000, including the very valuable franchises and the circulation, which are of basic importance to successful publishing companies, a conservative value placed on the property and business of Hearst Publications, Inc., is more than $40,000,000.

This is ample security for a bond issue of $12,000,000, but consider the earning power. The properties included in Hearst Publications, Inc., showed net profits in 1921 of $4,045,792; in 1922, $5,805,687, and in 1923, $6,474,153. Annual interest requirements on this issue amount to $780,000.

For a yield of 6½ per cent. Hearst Publications, Inc., bonds have no superiors. They may be had in $100, $500 and $1,000 pieces, for any maturity from two to twelve years. They are issued in serial form, maturing in series of $1,100,000 annually, beginning May 1, 1926. For an undisturbed investment, of course, the later maturities offer the greater attraction, for as each earlier series is matured the protection afforded the later maturities is increased.

BOSTON AMERICAN

Largest Evening Circulation in New England—May 9, 1924

The news, entertainment, education, and helpful services have made the Boston American the largest home-delivered newspaper in New England.

Charity begins at home—read the "Helping Hand" at home tonight and you can begin to help tomorrow.

Tax Bill As Now Mutilated Deserves Veto, Says Mr. Hearst

The revenue bill, reducing the surtaxes from 50 per cent. to 40 per cent., instead of to 25 per cent., as Secretary Mellon demanded, is a compromise characteristic of the inefficiency of a Congress ignorant of the subject upon which it is legislating.

Secretary Mellon recommended a reduction of the surtaxes to 25 per cent. for the specific purpose of taking capital out of non-taxable investment and putting it into taxable, productive enterprise.

The reports of the experts of the Treasury Department made perfectly clear the plain fact that this transfer of capital from non-taxable investment could only be accomplished if the surtax were made low enough to lure capital from its retreat in non-taxable securities by making the penalty for investment in taxable, productive enterprise not more severe than a 25 per cent. impost.

In fact, 25 per cent. was the maximum tax recommended, and from that down to 15 per cent., if this inducement to capital were to be made certain of effect.

Now comes Congress and discards entirely the scientific reports of the Treasury experts and the recommendations of that eminent financier and conscientious public servant, Secretary Mellon, and reduces the surtax only 10 per cent.—that is, from 50 per cent. to 40 per cent.

What possible logical reason is there for reducing the tax 10 per cent.?

Either Secretary Mellon was right in his assertion that a reduction to 25 per cent. was necessary in order to bring capital from non-taxable into taxable enterprise; or he was wrong.

If he was right, then the reduction to 25 per cent. should have been made to accomplish the object of the reduction, while the reduction to 40 per cent. will surely fail to accomplish the object of the reduction.

If he was wrong, then why reduce the tax at all?

In plain words, the reduction from 50 per cent. to 40 per cent. merely relieves the rich, by a 10 per cent. reduction, of taxation without establishing a rate which would bring capital into taxable enterprise.

In other words, the radicals have done the very thing which they said they did not want to do; that is, relieve the rich of taxation.

And they have failed to do the thing which they ought to want to do, as radicals and as Democrats; that is, establish a taxation rate which would make possible and probable the transfer of capital from non-taxable securities into taxable, productive enterprise.

Some epigrammatist once said that the unfortunate fact in this country was that the Democrats had all the heart and the Republicans all the brains.

The Democrats in this instance doubtless had the best intentions, but it is difficult to speak approvingly of their intelligence.

The obvious thing for the Democrats to have done would have been to accept Secretary Mellon's recommendations and give his plan a fair trial.

If it did not do what he promised it would do, then the odium of the failure would have been upon him and upon the Republican party. And the duty of the democracy would then have been to propose a practical plan to remedy the situation.

Either the Democrats should have given Secretary Mellon's plan this fair trial or they should have disregarded his recommendation entirely, and allowed the tax to remain as it was, and used this surtax income for the soldiers' bonus or the public improvements which the nation needs.

If President Coolidge should accept this Democratic perversion of the Mellon idea, he would sign a measure which will not give the Government either the income it now receives from the surtaxes, or the income which it would receive from the larger tax income from capital transferred from non-taxable to taxable enterprise.

The Democratic measure falls between two stools. It is neither fish nor flesh. If it is anything it is fudge.

It is a miserable mess, born of a desire to do something different from the plan proposed by the Republican secretary of the treasury, and without the knowledge or experience to offer a practical, practicable substitute.

It is to be hoped that President Coolidge will veto this mongrel proposal.

If the object of Secretary Mellon to bring capital out of hiding in non-taxable securities into taxable, productive enterprise cannot be secured by a reduction sufficient to accomplish this, then the surtaxes should be left as they are, and not merely a reduction made in the taxation on the rich and a decrease in the income of the Government without accomplishing the purpose which Secretary Mellon had in mind.

MRS. SOLOMON SAYS

By HELEN ROWLAND

MY Son, ask me not, "What is love?"

For every love affair beginneth with the same enthusiasm and endeth with the same weariness; and how shall a man know the Real Thing from the synthetic emotion?

Helen Rowland

Verily that which thou seekest to learn is not what is love, but WHICH is love.

Behold, my Son, it is LOVE when thou preferest the cloud of one woman's frown to the sun of another woman's smile.

When thou canst NOT forget her even while thou art kissing another woman.

When thou hast a primitive desire to beat her and subconscious yearning to make her "suffer."

When the comforts and joys of thy bachelor-flat lose their charm beside the vision of a stuffy bungalow, beneath a honeysuckle vine.

When all the little loves of thy past seem but as curtain-raisers to the "Big Drama," and all thy love-makings as naught but preparatory practice for the Great Moment.

When the half hour before thou meet her seemeth infinitely longer than the five hours thou spendest at her side.

When the dullest party is a "riot" if SHE is present—and the most riotous party is a "funeral" if she is absent.

When thou findest all thy best friends wearisome—and all thy best friends find thee an affliction.

When thou catchest thyself putting the pen into the mucilage and dipping the mucilage brush into the ink.

When thou meetest her upon a rainy-day, with her hair uncurled and her nose unpowdered, and still findest her beautiful.

When thou wishest that thou hadst been a "better man," and art covered with shame and remorse after a wild evening.

When thou ALMOST decides to "give up" thy pet folly for her sake.

When thou considerest "economizing" and smokest a pipe instead of cigarettes for a whole day.

When, for no reason whatsoever, thou feelest "sorry for thyself."

When thou canst be happy BEFORE breakfast!

Then, my Son, beware! For thou art as one that walketh blindfolded toward a precipice and heareth not the shouts of warning above the songs of Spring that ringeth in his ears!

Yea, verily thou art a marked man—and there is no HOPE for thee!

SELAH!

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By Aline Michaelis

LIFE is a riddle that none may read, neither the high nor the low; wonder lies hidden in thought and deed, still as the creeping years go. Why is the road made so smooth for some, never a stone in the way, until the twilight shadows come, never a cloud on the day? Laughter lies light on their happy lips, wearing for amulet joy, while each rosy hour slips past where clear and complete; things that we counted as loss or gain, things that were bitter or sweet! Then we will see how the shadowed day may have been dear as the sun, then we will value the rocky way after the journey is done, their steps are set. Yet, while they sip of the sweet of earth, ever through care-free years, others must seigh at the sound of their mirth, others know travail and tears. Patience! Some day it will all be plain, all will be. Nothing to do but to keep on the road, bearing as best we can all of our share of the heavy load, glimpsing the duty of man. Nothing to do but to creep and grope, here where the dimness lies; nothing to do but to wait and hope mists from our pathway will rise. Life is a puzzle for all to solve, every man after his way; neither the years nor the tears absolve each from the part he must play. Patience! and go with unfaltering tread, sad be your journey or good. Then when the riddle at last is read, all shall be understood!

Asks Help for Boys

Editor Helping Hand:

I am very thankful that I have been able to help five different women with shoes, house dresses, stockings, and to Mrs. M. in Woburn I sent a black silk coat and a white feather hat. Each have written me a very thankful answer. Now I want help for two boys, three and six years old, whom I have in mind, so if anyone can help me supply these boys I shall be well rewarded for all my trouble. Any kind of coats, suits or shoes (sizes 5 and 8). These boys are of worthy parents, but in hard luck.

MRS. G. L. R.

Gives Again

Editor Helping Hand:

Would you please send me somebody's name? I have a very good jacket I would like to give, size 44. It could be made over. Any time I can help will let you know. I have sent Mrs. P. a Spring coat and Mrs. P. patchwork.

MRS. G. D.

Again we thank you. You have been sent the address of Mrs. J. V., a widow with child suffering with heart trouble.

Needs Baby Clothes

Editor Helping Hand:

I expect a baby in about two weeks. I wonder if you could refer me to some one who would give me some baby clothes for the new baby? I have been unable to secure anything at all. My husband has deserted me, and I would be destitute except for the kindness of a friend, who has given me shelter, and a little help from my brother. I have been unable to pay the registration fee at the hospital yet, so am in desperate circumstances.

MRS. A. B. A.

For Small Woman

Editor Helping Hand:

I am sending in a list of things I feel sure someone can use. They will all fit a small woman. I would like to have some one call in the evening for these things.

MRS. G. 24.

Thank you for your generous list. You have been sent the address of Mrs. K. O'D., and we have written asking her to call.

Suits and Dresses

Editor Helping Hand:

I have a man's suit, almost new; two dresses for a girl about fourteen years old. Winter underwear for man and woman (two suits each), and other things a mother could make over for children. Will have more a little later.

J. L. S. T.

Thank you. We have sent you the address of Mrs. C. D., the mother of a large family.

DR. FRANK CRANE ON GREAT NEED FOR GENTLEMEN

By DR. FRANK CRANE

THE greatest need of the world today is Gentlemen.

While it might be said that the greatest need is the Christian, that would connote too much. The legacy of two thousand years of struggle makes the idea of the Christian suggest creed, party, contention and war cries.

The word Gentleman contains about the practical substance of the word Christian, what you might call its usable residuum.

If there is anything that is a Simon pure and genuine "long-felt want" it is the Gentleman.

We even need the Gentleman in the pulpit. That is, we need less Bible thumping and more appreciation, courage, enthusiasm and inspiration from the Sacred Desk.

At least, we need a little more restraint and consciousness of responsibility.

The Gentleman is needed in the newspaper office. Even the reporter can tell the truth without being a bounder. The editorial writer would carry much more weight if he realized that vividness, sincerity and fearlessness are vastly more convincing than reckless attack.

We desperately need Gentlemen in Congress, and in the Senate. We need men there who will not take advantage of their immunity to make statements they would not dare to make outside. We need men there who realize that fearlessness, honesty and honor are not inconsistent with courtesy.

What characterizes the Gentleman?

A Gentleman will not say of a man behind his back what he would not say to his face.

A Gentleman does not assume that his opponent is a scoundrel; he must have that fact proved.

A Gentleman recognizes his responsibility for his utterances.

A Gentleman depends, for his effectiveness, upon facts, and not upon an offensive manner.

A Gentleman habitually understates, and is careful not to exaggerate.

A Gentleman plays fair, works fair and talks fair. A Gentleman is one who controls himself; thus he is equipped to control others.

A Gentleman is considerate of those weaker than himself, and not afraid of those stronger than himself.

A Gentleman conceals a hand of iron under a glove of velvet; the non-Gentleman conceals a flabby hand under an iron glove.

We need reformers, we need protesters, we need business men, legislators, preachers, bricklayers and bankers; but most of all we need that every one of these shall be a Gentleman.

GARRETT P. SERVISS ON BATTLING SPIRITS

By Garrett P. Serviss

Famous Astronomer and Writer on Scientific Topics of Popular Interest.

THE latest ghost story, and one of the best, comes from Iceland. These ghosts from so near the Arctic Circle are as boisterous as the northern winds. Some of their doings are even dangerous for spectators. They use a "medium" to get back into the living world, and their performances are given at spiritist seances. But these seances differ widely from the tame and stupid proceedings usually witnessed on such occasions.

The story is told, at length, in the "Journal of the American Society for Physical Research," a society of which I happen to be a critical, but of course not unfriendly, "associate."

The author of the narrative is Professor Gudmundur Hanneson, of the University of Reykjavik, Iceland. He is a doctor of medicine, and a strong skeptic in regard to all claims of supernaturalism. The result of his remarkable experience is that he remains greatly astonished and puzzled, and that some of the things which he saw, heard, or felt, he is, to use his own words, "utterly at a loss to account for."

The story of Dr. Hanneson's battle of wits, and sometimes of muscle, with the ghosts is told with much humor, which cannot be reproduced in a brief synopsis. He certainly seems to have left no stone unturned to catch the tricksters, if tricksters there were. But the ghosts (or the tricksters) were too much for him.

The performances usually took place in a room specially prepared for the seances, but once (with equal success), in the doctor's own house. The medium, supposedly in a trance, was in a part of the room shut off by a strong yarn net, with meshes too small to admit the passage of a hand, but not preventing a good view.

The doctor, with a few friends, was outside the net, but once or twice he was permitted to go inside; and on one occasion, when he tried to seize a chair that the ghosts had thrown into a corner, he was struck by a heavy blow in the back by what seemed to be a fist, although he was sure that neither the medium nor the "watcher," who was always at the medium's side, holding both his hands, could possibly have dealt the blow.

The phenomena usually occurred in the dark, but the doctor was permitted to turn on a flashlight whenever he asked permission, though he was never able to catch anything wrong.

A very unusual feature was the irruption into the ghostly circle of some "unruly spirits," who took things into their own hands, in spite of the regular "control," and these wild ghosts raised hob to their hearts' content, jerking chairs away, throwing and breaking tables, pulling the medium up toward the ceiling by his feet until his head hung downward, and once having a tussle with the doctor, best told in his own words.

"I can feel something bulging through near the bottom of the net, and find that it is the corner of the lectern (which had been torn from its fastenings). I take hold of it and challenge the spook to pull it away if he dare. 'Eat hell!' is that polite gentleman's reply, but nevertheless he pulls at the wreck with considerable force and manages to drag it a little along the floor. The watchman finds this reply so stupid that he can not help commenting on it. I can not refrain from retorting in some uncomplimentary term. By way of reply I get some broken glass and other rubbish that was lying on the floor thrown into my face. This was thrown from the empty quarter and from a different direction entirely to that of the medium and the watchman, who were lying on the floor close to my feet. Who in the world was it that threw these things?"

The mischievous spirits are heard whispering something about having to "fetch power." "Sometimes they appeal to the control demanding of him, by fair means or foul, 'power' from the medium. He flatly and curtly refuses their request, asks them to be quiet and says he can let them have no power whatever."

"When the medium was being pulled up into the air, and everything was going to wrack and ruin, somebody inquired if a little light would not be good for these ghosts. The control answered that it certainly would, they would come to no harm by it, but, unfortunately we (i. e., the control and his co-operators) are unable to stand it, and we are now in straits, finding it hard enough to save ourselves and the medium."
